Melbourn, England - October 07, 2024 -
Lockey Digital UK LTD, a well-known company in the security industry, has announced an expansion of its range of digital locks. Since its establishment in 1982, the company has consistently delivered high-quality and innovative security solutions. They are known for their digital door locks and mechanical keyless locks, offering safety for both residential and commercial properties. Their products, crafted in Japan, stand as a mark of durability and precision.

Lockey Digital UK LTD provides a wide variety of digital locks to meet the diverse needs of its customers. One of their most popular products is the 2000 series, which is suitable for 30 and 60-minute fire-rated timber door sets, providing a high level of safety. The Little Lockey range is ideal for lighter duties, offering a reliable solution for settings that need frequent but less intense use. For more versatile applications, the Narrow Style and Super 8 models cater to both standard and narrow stile doors, proving to be adaptable and durable. The High Tech range is specifically designed for heavy-duty use, ensuring robust security.

"Lockey Digital UK LTD has always been at the forefront of security innovation," said Michele Fenton, Managing Director. "Our digital locks are designed not only to secure but also to simplify the access control process, making them both high-tech and user-friendly."

The company also offers a range of accessories and parts that enhance the functionality and longevity of their locks. These accessories allow customers to maintain and upgrade their security systems as needed. The key safes provided by Lockey Digital offer secure storage solutions for keys, which is crucial for both commercial and residential settings.

Additionally, the company's locker and cabinet locks come in both electronic and mechanical versions, meeting the requirements of various institutions such as schools, offices, and gyms. Their gate closers and locks, including the Lockey Gate Box and the Lockey LD930 Narrow Style Latch, offer reliable solutions for gate closure, enhancing overall property security.

Alongside their extensive range of digital locks and mechanical keyless locks, Lockey Digital UK LTD also offers Sentry Remote Controls. These include French Rolling Code and Code Hopping remote controls, which provide secure and convenient access control. Their sliding door locks are another notable product, offering strong security for sliding doors, commonly considered a weak point in property security.

"Quality and reliability are the hallmarks of Lockey Digital's products," Fenton added. "Every item undergoes rigorous testing to meet stringent quality standards, ensuring that our customers receive only the best."
