Rightnow Products Limited, a company operating out of Central Hong Kong, is adjusting production capacity for its knee braces after a recent medical article highlighted the fact that runners can be helped by the braces. The article noted that runners regularly suffer from knee discomfort. It also showed that knee braces, which are reasonably inexpensive products, can help in protecting these athletes from the pain. This has led to a surge in demand for Rightnow Products Limited's For Knees magnetic knee braces. The article can be accessed through <http://voiceobserver.com/2016/01/02/knee-braces-for-nbsp-running.html>.

Spokesperson for Rightnow Products Limited Eric Arnow says: "It is perhaps no surprise that runners experience pain in their knees due to the high impact sport that they engage in. We want to make sure runners know that they do not have to give up on their sport. Rather, by investing in our knee brace, they are able to alleviate the discomfort and continue to be athletic."

The knee brace from Rightnow Products has been positively received by the people who have tried it. "I have used several different kinds of knee braces in the past, mostly when I go backpacking for 1-2 weeks each summer," says Mariangeles V. "In addition to knee braces, I usually had to use ibuprofen, and run cold water over my sore knees every single day. I was very happy with these braces, as I didn't have to do either of those things this time."

The article in the Voice Observer also clearly discusses when a knee brace may be necessary and highlights how it is an important tool in preparation for and recovery from physiotherapy and even surgery. The Rightnow knee brace, which is available through <http://www.amazon.com/dp/B016WQW7A6> is designed for that purpose. The company encourages everyone to visit www.for-knees.com for further information.

In the article, a certified pedorthist and kinesiologist relates his personal experience with patients who have used knee braces for 10 years. He notes that while braces are not used during physiotherapy so that the muscles may be permitted to gain in strength, using a brace is advisable when the patient is not doing rehab to ensure that no damage is caused to the muscles that are recovering their strength.
