

New BDKMG Facebook Launch Unveils Records and Rising Artist Ben Killen

October 10, 2024

New York, New York - October 10, 2024 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

B.D. Killen Music Group (BDKMG) is excited to announce the launch of a new Facebook page, offering followers a peek into the energetic world of this New York-based music label and live entertainment company. You can find the page at <http://facebook.com/bdkmg>. It's designed to be a central space for fans wanting to keep up with the latest music and events from artists working with BDKMG.

Right now, the Facebook page offers a quick look at what the company is up to, but there's more to come. Soon, those interested will see updates featuring exclusive scoops and news about the various artists under BDKMG. Fans can look forward to learning about new artists, upcoming concerts, and exciting collaborations, all part of BDKMG's mission to enrich the music experience for live audiences.

One of the highlights at BDKMG is Ben Killen, their latest creative addition. He's introducing his new single, "Singing River Blues," which brings a fresh perspective to Country Blues. This track combines a deep authenticity with a modern twist that speaks to listeners. The song tells the story of Killen's musical journey from Alabama to New York, inspired by legendary blues greats like Howlin' Wolf and Muddy Waters. Proceeds from the single will support efforts to secure fair wages for artists, showing a commitment beyond just music.

To further his commitment to promoting female artists and women in music, Ben Killen has also launched CowgirlRadio.com, an online country radio station dedicated to showcasing their talent and stories. This initiative underlines Killen's dedication to challenging the status quo and addressing gender disparity in the music industry.

Ben Killen's efforts match up perfectly with BDKMG's goal to empower artists and promote diversity in the music scene. B.D. Killen, founder of the group, says, "Launching our new Facebook page is a step towards making BDKMG a more accessible community for music enthusiasts. Our artists are storytellers, and we want to build a platform where their stories reverberate and inspire."

Killen has also created an official music video for "Singing River Blues." The video pays homage to blues history, featuring images connected to W.C. Handy, known as the "Father of the Blues." This project showcases Ben's talent for blending historical influences with modern music styles.

In addition, BDKMG invites everyone to visit their news section online at <https://press.killenmusicgroup.com/news/>. This spot provides a closer look at their projects and initiatives that focus on creativity in the music industry. The website highlights BDKMG's involvement in live performances, broadcasting, and other productions, showcasing their wide-reaching artistic impact.

Ben Killen is preparing to bring his music to the stage with upcoming performances. A single release show is planned for New York City, with plans for a regional tour across the US and North America. This tour is intended to give fans a chance to see Killen's distinctive mix of music and performance art up close, offering a true connection to BDKMG's mission.

Ben Killen captures what BDKMG stands for. He shares, "My music is rooted in the rich legacy of Blues, yet it speaks to contemporary stories. I'm thrilled to share the narrative within 'Singing River Blues' and invite listeners to join me on this journey."

For more updates on BDKMG's work and future events, fans are encouraged to check out their Facebook page regularly. Also, explore Ben Killen's music and projects at <https://benkillen.bandcamp.com/> to fully engage with the diverse offerings of B.D. Killen Music Group.

The collaboration between BDKMG and Killen is set to go beyond just producing music, aiming to create a transformative influence in the industry. This journey promises remarkable music and a platform where voices, stories, and melodies are truly valued and widely shared.
