Safety First Training Ltd Announces Participation in Fire Prevention Week 2024, Emphasizing Smoke Alarm Awareness

October 08, 2024

Mississauga, ON - October 08, 2024 -
Safety First Training Ltd, a leading provider of workplace health and safety training services since 1989, is proud to announce its participation in Fire Prevention Week, taking place from October 6-12, 2024. This year's theme, "Smoke alarms: Make them work for you!?" emphasizes the critical importance of functional smoke alarms in saving lives and preventing property damage.

Kevin Mork, Vice President of Business Development at Safety First Training, stated, "Fire Prevention Week serves as a crucial reminder of the importance of fire safety awareness in the workplace. Our Fire Safety & Awareness Training course aligns perfectly with this year's theme, providing comprehensive education on fire prevention, safety protocols, and proper use of fire safety equipment."

Safety First Training's Fire Safety & Awareness Training course is designed to meet the requirements of the Occupational Health and Safety Act (OHSA) and the Ontario Fire Code. The course covers essential topics such as understanding the elements and sources of fire, identifying classes of fires and extinguishers, workplace fire safety and prevention tips, and evacuation plan and procedure guidelines. Additionally, the course delves into the proper storage of flammable materials and the importance of regular fire drills in the workplace.

The company's commitment to fire safety education extends beyond the classroom. Safety First Training offers on-site training sessions tailored to meet the specific needs of businesses across Southern Ontario, including Toronto, Mississauga, Brampton, Hamilton, Kitchener-Waterloo, London, and other major cities. These sessions provide hands-on experience and practical knowledge to ensure employees are well-prepared to handle fire emergencies. The on-site training also allows for customization based on specific workplace layouts and potential fire hazards unique to each business.

In light of Fire Prevention Week, Safety First Training is emphasizing the importance of regular fire safety training for all employees. The company's course not only educates participants on the proper use of fire extinguishers but also covers critical aspects of workplace fire safety, including the maintenance of fire alarms, sprinklers, and emergency lighting systems. Furthermore, the training highlights the significance of clear emergency exit signage, the establishment of fire warden roles, and the implementation of regular fire safety audits to identify and address potential risks proactively.ShareRewrite

Safety First Training also offers a Train the Trainer certification course for Fire Safety in the Workplace. This program enables companies to have their own certified trainers, making ongoing fire safety education more accessible and cost-effective. The Train the Trainer package includes comprehensive materials such as professional teaching guides, course presentations, and evaluation forms.

As part of their commitment to fire safety, Safety First Training encourages all businesses to review their current fire safety protocols and ensure they are up to date with the latest regulations. The company reminds employers that fire safety training is not just a legal requirement but a crucial investment in the safety and well-being of their employees and assets.

Safety First Training has been a trusted provider of Workplace Health & Safety Training Services for thousands of companies and government organizations for over three decades. Their team of Canadian Safety Professionals brings extensive experience in health & safety training and course development, ensuring that all training programs meet CSA & OHSA standards.
