Högg Liftsysteme AG, a Swiss company with a long tradition of mobility solutions, has earned a reputation for quality and reliability since it started in 1990. Known for its custom lift systems, the company provides a wide variety of products such as stairlifts, wheelchair lifts, and vertical lifts. These products cater to both individuals and businesses across Switzerland. With its offices in St. Gallen, Bern, and Lausanne, Högg Liftsysteme AG is committed to improving mobility for people with limited movement, particularly in the St. Gallen region.

Högg Liftsysteme AG specializes in stairlifts, offering designs for both straight and curved staircases. Each lift is custom-made, ensuring it fits perfectly with the staircase's unique features. This approach minimizes intrusion and meets the architectural constraints of different spaces. The company's stairlifts are ideal for homes where maintaining natural aesthetics is as crucial as enhancing accessibility.

Alongside stairlifts, the company also offers platform lifts and elevators, which are essential for wheelchair users. These lifts are designed to blend smoothly into residential and commercial settings, making vertical mobility easy and seamless. By offering these systems, Högg Liftsysteme AG helps wheelchair users move around without being restricted by stairs, boosting their independence and promoting inclusivity.

Högg Liftsysteme AG provides a broad spectrum of lift solutions including wheel chair lifts which can be customized for indoor and outdoor use, and do not require a lift pit or machine room, making them highly adaptable. Their seat lifts offer a comfortable means for individuals with mobility issues to navigate various types of staircases, whether straight or curved.

Beyond their varied product range, Högg Liftsysteme AG is known for its strong customer service. They provide trial rides, repairs, maintenance, and a variety of services to ensure their installations remain reliable over time. Customers can also choose from second-hand and rental lifts, giving them flexible and budget-friendly options. This dedication to service highlights the company's focus on maintaining high standards and meeting customer needs.

Daniel Kressig states, "Our mission is to deliver lift systems that not only meet but exceed the expectations of our customers. We understand that each client's needs are unique, and we pride ourselves on designing and installing systems that offer both safety and convenience." This focus on the customer is evident in their detailed planning process. It involves understanding each client's specific needs and preferences to offer a custom installation that provides optimal utility and ease of use.
