Hong Kong based company Rightnow Products Limited has announced that they have received an email from a customer. This email is a testimonial for the company's knee brace. Eric Arnow, spokesperson for the company says, "The email that we received shows the efficacy of our knee brace, For-Knees. Getting emails like this gives us a great feeling, that the product may help people relieve their knee pain. That is the ideal of business, finding a product or service that can help people."

Arnow states that the knee brace, which has been on the market for some time, is designed to provide support for those with arthritis and other issues who typically find it difficult to walk, run, or otherwise exert themselves without pain. The customer states that with the knee brace, she was able to enjoy a pain free experience.

The email that was sent by Suzanne Berry says simply, "What can I say except thank you. I've recently begun to experience painful arthritis in my knees and have tried almost everything in the way of support. I found that compression sleeves help after spending a small fortune on the braces that wrap around the knee cap. However, they only provided some relief. When I looked online and saw your knee sleeves and read about them, I just had to give them a try. From the moment I slipped them on, minutes after their arrival, I literally ran around the house shouting thank you, thank you."

Berry goes on to say that, "I am so pleased. My knees feel 100% better. I instantly ordered a second pair to have on hand when needed. I felt I had to write and let you know how incredibly grateful I am to have found your product. And thank you too for your email. You have really, really helped my mobility and decreased my suffering significantly."

Arnow says that everyone at the company is pleased with Berry's email and that they hope to receive more like it in the future as more and more customers try out the knee brace. The brace is currently available on the Amazon marketplace and can be seen at <http://www.amazon.com/dp/B016WQW7A6>.
