November 07, 2024 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Cary, NC ? SafeAir Mold Testing, a leading name in professional mold inspection and testing services, proudly announces the launch of its newest office in Cary, North Carolina. This expansion, led by owner and CEO Jeremy Shelton, represents a significant step forward in the company?s mission to deliver top-tier mold testing and inspection services to more communities across the Southeast.

SafeAir Mold Testing has earned a reputation as a trusted partner for residential and commercial property owners seeking to protect their indoor environments from the risks associated with mold. With the opening of its Cary office, SafeAir is set to provide its comprehensive suite of services, including detailed inspections, moisture assessments, and advanced mold sampling. Backed by state-of-the-art technology and certified lab analysis, SafeAir ensures clients receive precise, reliable information and peace of mind.

Jeremy Shelton, a dedicated advocate for indoor air quality and public health, expressed his excitement about this new expansion: ?Cary is a thriving community with a unique mix of homes and businesses. We?re excited to bring our expertise here to help property owners maintain safe, healthy spaces. SafeAir Mold Testing is committed to providing Cary residents and businesses with the same thorough and professional service that has made us a trusted name in the industry.?

SafeAir Mold Testing has grown steadily by focusing on transparency, excellence, and client education. The company's approach stands out through its dedication to empowering clients with clear, actionable insights. Comprehensive reports detail the types and concentrations of mold found, coupled with straightforward guidance on addressing any identified issues. This dedication to transparency and customer understanding has established SafeAir as a leader in mold testing and a reliable resource for property owners seeking to safeguard their environments.

The new Cary office will offer the community enhanced access to SafeAir's complete range of services. Whether it's a thorough initial inspection to uncover hidden mold or follow-up consultations to guide remediation efforts, SafeAir Mold Testing aims to arm property owners with the knowledge they need to make informed decisions for long-term health and safety.

As the owner and CEO, Jeremy Shelton has driven SafeAir's growth and commitment to environmental health and safety. With a strong background in environmental sciences, Shelton's leadership reflects the company's core mission of promoting healthier living and working spaces.

"Opening an office in Cary is more than an expansion—it's an opportunity to bring trusted mold testing services to a community that values health and safety," Shelton stated. "At SafeAir, we don't just conduct inspections; we provide education, so our clients understand their options and feel confident in the steps they take to protect their properties and loved ones."

SafeAir Mold Testing's services begin with an in-depth visual inspection of properties, assessing even hard-to-reach areas where mold often hides. The inspection process is supported by advanced tools to identify moisture levels and potential problem spots. When necessary, air and surface samples are collected and analyzed in accredited laboratories. This ensures precise reporting of mold types and concentrations, empowering clients with clear recommendations for addressing any issues found.

The expert team at SafeAir Mold Testing is equipped to manage a wide range of scenarios, from minor mold concerns to more complex contamination cases. With the Cary office, SafeAir is prepared to respond promptly, a crucial advantage for clients needing urgent evaluations or real estate transaction inspections.

The decision to open a new location in Cary highlights SafeAir's recognition of the area's growing population and varied property landscape. Cary's combination of historic residences, new developments, and its specific climate make it susceptible to moisture-related issues that can lead to mold. By establishing a local presence, SafeAir aims to be a reliable partner for Cary residents and businesses, providing tailored services that address local needs.

To support the community, SafeAir Mold Testing plans to engage in educational initiatives, participate in local events, and provide consultations focused on mold prevention and maintaining healthy indoor air quality.
