Powerhouse Elevation & Construction Announces Major Expansion as Leading General Contractor in Southeast Louisiana

November 21, 2024

November 21, 2024 -
Powerhouse Elevation & Construction, a well-known general contractor in Southeast Louisiana, has announced a big expansion. They're opening a new location at 911 Oxley Street, Kenner, LA 70062, close to the New Orleans International Airport. This strategic move aims to make it easier for clients in the New Orleans Metro Area to access their services and improve service efficiency.

For over 25 years, Powerhouse Elevation & Construction has built a strong reputation by offering a wide variety of services. Their expertise covers electrical work, framing, HVAC, painting, plumbing, roofing, house raising, foundation repair, and shoring & leveling. This new spot shows the company's steady growth and ongoing commitment to quality service. Learn more about their extensive range of services by visiting their website.

Mike McClain, a representative from Powerhouse Elevation & Construction, stated, "With our new site, we are poised to better serve the New Orleans community. This move not only elevates our logistical capabilities but also brings us closer to both our residential and commercial clients. We look forward to continuing our legacy of reliability and professionalism."

The company is recognized for its range of comprehensive services. Their electrical offerings promise safe and efficient power for homes and businesses through careful wiring, repairs, and lighting installations. When it comes to framing, their detailed work supports new constructions and renovations, ensuring solid structural foundations.

In HVAC services, Powerhouse Elevation & Construction excels at installing, repairing, and maintaining heating and cooling systems, making sure living and working spaces stay comfortable. Their painting services bring an eye for detail, providing smooth finishes for both the inside and outside of properties, boosting both looks and value.

Their plumbing services cover a lot of ground, from fixing pipes to overhauling complete systems. The roofing services are all about safeguarding homes and businesses, offering fierce protection through strong installs, repairs, and maintenance work.

Beyond these basic services, the company is highly involved in home elevation. They specialize in house raising, helping property owners protect their homes from flooding, ensuring they retain and even increase in value. They're also skilled in foundation repair, providing long-term stability and safety, along with shoring and leveling to keep structures sound.

A unique aspect of Powerhouse Elevation & Construction is its focus on disaster services. They're an authorized Disaster Services Contractor and work with groups such as FEMA and LA Restore. This partnership helps clients access grant programs for house raising, roofing fortified against storms, and repairing storm damage. They work closely with local, state, and federal agencies to guide clients from the qualification process to receiving these grants. For more specifics on disaster services and grant assistance, visit their website.

Looking back at the company's growth, McClain added, "Our development as a trusted general contractor has been consistent and deliberate. We have the tools and team needed to tackle the challenges of today's construction environment. Expanding our footprint is an exciting next step in our commitment to serve our community better."

As Powerhouse Elevation & Construction keeps growing, the new location is a clear sign of their commitment to excellence. This expansion isn't just about a new physical space; it's about boosting their ability to provide top-notch professional and reliable construction services. Those who want to know more
