Solicitors In Romford Announce New Family Law Services

January 22, 2016

January 22, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

McCorry Connolly Solicitors, a law firm based in Romford, Essex, England, has announced a new suite of services designed to assist area residents. The solicitors in Romford previously offered family law, but according to Roisin McCorry, one of the partners with the firm, they have expanded their offerings. Services in the family law realm now include all matters related to separation and divorce, as well as matrimonial financial matters and issues dealing with children.

"Our solicitors are experienced in providing a number of family law services," states Roisin McCorry. "We are pleased to now be able to cover every issue that our clients may be facing."

The family law solicitors consist of a team of five, each with unique experience and specialization, according to McCorry. "We can cover issues from pre-nuptial to separation agreements, and whatever may fall in between," she states.

Roisin McCorry is the firm's family law specialist and has experiences related to the settlement of matrimonial finances, as well as other issues related to family law. Her finance experience covers issues such as when assets may be held abroad or when a married couple has a complex debt issue to resolve as part of their divorce proceedings. Often, financial obligations related to marriages or civil partnerships cannot be resolved with a Decree absolute during divorce proceedings. McCorry points out that this is when an experienced solicitor is needed to ensure that all parties are treated fairly.

The firm offers a wide range of family law representation and has a staff of conveyancing solicitors as well. McCorry states that they offer a specialist solicitor for virtually every legal issue that an individual or business may face.

The firm has been in operation for several years and has a combined experience of more than 100 years in a number of legal topics. Those interested can learn more about their credentials and their newest legal service offerings by visiting them on their official website. The firm states that they offer a free 40 minute initial consultation for first time clients to discuss potential cases and to better explain the services that they offer.
