

Jonesborough's Unaka Forest Products Leads Pallet Manufacturers with Sustainable Innovations

December 23, 2024

December 23, 2024 -
Unaka Forest Products, a long-standing family-owned business, has announced new strides in sustainable wood pallet production. Located in Jonesborough, Tennessee, this company has been in the industry for over 40 years. Starting out in logging, it eventually became a leading name among pallet manufacturers, known for its commitment to environmentally-friendly practices.

Unaka Forest Products aims to keep producing high-quality pallets by using logs sourced from its own forestry operations. This self-reliant approach not only leads to better quality products but also allows for more sustainable resource management. By converting small pulp logs into fully usable pallet lumber instead of sending them to paper mills, the company makes the most of available materials and supports eco-friendly practices.

Beyond crafting new pallets, Unaka Forest Products has also made recycling a central part of its business. For more information on how they reuse and refurbish pallets, visit their page about recycled pallets. This move not only makes pallets more affordable but also reduces their environmental footprint by reusing materials. This broad range of options helps the company meet diverse customer needs, offering both new and recycled pallets.

A unique feature that sets Unaka Forest Products apart is its own trucking operations, which guarantee timely deliveries. Customers can count on receiving pallets at their locations within 24 hours, efficiently meeting urgent supply needs and highlighting the company's dependable service capability. They control their delivery service, providing a seamless customer experience.

Another key focus for the company is creating job opportunities in the community. As a family-run business, Unaka Forest Products values dedication and strong local ties and is continuously looking for committed individuals to join its enduring growth journey. Those interested in joining their team can find employment opportunities available.

Adding to its sustainable efforts, the company has recently delved into biofuel production. By converting waste by-products from the pallet-making process into biofuel, Unaka Forest Products helps cut dependence on traditional energy sources. To understand more about their biofuel initiatives, you can read about their biofuel production. This step showcases their environmentally forward-thinking strategy, contributing to America's push for energy independence.

"Our expansion in sustainable practices is a crucial part of our vision for the future," stated a representative from Unaka Forest Products Inc. "Through developing biofuels and considering recycled pallets, we aim to protect natural resources while satisfying our customers' needs. It's a responsibility we proudly carry forward."

The company stays in touch with customers and the community via its informative blog.
