December 24, 2024

Richardson, TX - December 24, 2024 -

Go Industries Inc., well-regarded for its wide range of truck accessories and law enforcement gear, has just introduced its latest product: the 79636 Underbody Truck Tool Box ? Black. Since 1978, Go Industries has been known for its reliable, high-quality products that are built to satisfy the diverse needs of its customers. This new underbody tool box is designed to provide security and efficient storage, particularly for those who need tough and reliable solutions for their work vehicles.

This underbody truck tool box is all about strength and security. It's made from rugged 14-gauge steel, which means it's built to last even in tough conditions. The box also features a recessed drop door for extra protection, keeping valuable tools and equipment safe. Its watertight gasket helps keep moisture out, ensuring that what's inside stays dry and secure. The black powder-coated finish not only gives it a sleek look but also guards against rust and corrosion, which helps this tool box last even longer.

A representative of Go Industries, said, "Our commitment to quality and functionality is evident in every product we create. The 79636 Underbody Truck Tool Box exemplifies our dedication to providing reliable storage solutions. We understand the critical role these products play in the daily operations of our customers, and we continue to innovate in ways that meet and exceed their expectations."

Beyond the new underbody truck tool box, Go Industries also offers the shovel box as part of its wide array of storage options. This product is smartly designed with perforated metal sides to prevent dirt from building up, keeping things neat and organized. With dimensions of 72x18x10 inches, it's perfectly suited for safely storing shovels and similar tools. Its easy installation and practical design make it a valuable tool for professionals needing effective storage for their equipment.

Go Industries offers a comprehensive view of their product range on their website, showcasing the diverse functionality of items like Rancher Grille Guards and BigTex Grille Guards.

Versatility is another key feature of Go Industries' products, especially their work truck boxes. These boxes combine style and practicality, allowing them to fit seamlessly into any work truck setup. Their flexible mounting options let users adjust their truck setups to meet specific needs, striking the right balance between utility and looks.

The representative further stated, "Our work truck boxes are crafted with the end-user in mind. We focus on creating products that not only offer secure storage but are also easy to install and adapt to varied requirements. This adaptability is a distinct advantage, making these boxes a preferred choice for many professionals."
