HCM City VN: StoryBoss.net is pleased to announce the availability of free templates to enhance graphics and sound for e-learning course developers. The StoryBoss platform was created for coaches, mentors, consultants and experts of all kinds. Online entrepreneurs can make use of online course materials as a suitable marketing tool for a wide range of topics and businesses. In addition, income is available through marketing online courses. The distribution of free templates gives marketers the opportunity to try out the flexibility and characteristics of the software.

The company says that the most useful e-learning tools use more than one type of learning mode. Some people learn better with visual images, some with sound. The templates offered by StoryBoss.net are designed to combine various learning modes, adding images and sounds to the written content for more vivid presentations of the content. StoryBoss.net uses Articulate Storyline 2 tools to build pre-made templates.

Clients may choose to use the templates directly, through an extensive library of resources available to use on-line. Alternatively, the Storyboss.net clients can take advantage of the premium Course Creation Service. With this approach, the professional team experienced in the art of crafting online courses look at the client's content and determine the appropriate way to present the material. The clients are kept involved in the entire process to ensure that the end result will be satisfactory.

The company was founded by a team consisting of masters of the online course. They created entire layouts starting from a blank screen, combining the right elements to achieve the desired goals. With this background, the company decided to open up their creations to the global marketplace. The templates are designed to begin with the pre-set features, but users are also able to change some settings according to the requirements and wishes. The settings which may be changed include objects, variables, sound, animations and triggers.
