Burlington ON: Hamilton roofing professional team and Greg Shelley are pleased to remind homeowners and business owners that they offer free, no-obligation quotes to those considering improving the security and safety of their property. Previous customers of the local roofing contractor offer the best opportunity to determine whether the accuracy of the quotes have held up in practice. Customer testimonials are uniformly positive about the experience which they have enjoyed from the professional team at Custom Contracting.

The Burlington-based roofing and siding company works with high quality products for projects of eaves troughs, fibre cement siding, wood siding, windows and doors, as well as roofing options. When prospective customers request a free quotation, the custom-contracting team ensures that a review of the customer's needs and preferences are completed before recommendations are provided. An informed customer is more likely to make decisions which are suitable for long-term satisfaction.

The products are noted for their quality, but the company must also be able to stand behind their services. Quality products combined with installation by fully trained and experienced personnel. Not only are the products warranted, but the installation is also warranted. The customer care doesn't end with the installation of quality products. The company provides free inspections and estimates to ensure the long-term success of the new products.

Custom Contracting installation work is covered under both the manufacturer's warranty and a workmanship warranty. The warranties for workmanship are available to transfer to subsequent property owners.

Most homeowners will have to replace a roof, siding, or other major building components at least once during a lifetime. The information provided during the free consultation and quotation process will enable the owner to choose quality products installed by highly skilled technicians. Because the estimate is a no-obligation response to the customer's needs, there is no pressure to choose higher prices, simply to give the salesperson a better rating.
