London, UK, JAN 16, 2016 ? Getting a venue where all one's guests can fit and celebrate comfortably, especially for a traditional Asian wedding, can make the event more majestic and memorable. In keeping with their mission to educate photographers, Pixcellence (www.pixcellence.co.uk) has just published a new blog post entitled ?How Your Wedding Photographer Should Capture the Highlights of the Day.'

The article discusses an article in People magazine elaborating on 'one of Hollywood?s hottest couples who has finally tied the knot. Last August 23, 2014, Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie finally exchanged ?I dos? just in time for the 10th anniversary of their first film together, Mr. and Mrs. Smith.'

According to the article by correspondents Mary Green and Michelle Tauber, 'their six kids and a few other close friends and family were present in the intimate ceremony set in their French estate. Each child had a key role to play: Eldest sons Maddox, 13, and Pax, 10, walked their mom down the aisle; flower girls Zahara, 9, and Vivienne, 6, tossed petals gathered from the garden; and Shiloh, 8, and Knox, 6, served as ring bearers. The kids also helped write their parents? vows'.

?Anyone you ask to take your wedding photos will definitely try to immortalise every cherished moment,? stated Pixcellence's Clwyd Probert, ?but only a dedicated London wedding photographer will make sure that the most important photos will be taken as precisely as you requested or as lovely as you would want it. The professional will use expertise to capture your gorgeous bridal glow, your tender moments with your new husband, your celebrations with loved ones, and other significant details of your wedding.?

Pixcellence offers coaching courses to help photographers of all levels improve their photographic talents teaching photographic techniques and educating the public about cross-cultural wedding customs.
