January 19, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Piedmont Security Systems, a leader in corporate and enterprise security solutions in the Piedmont area, is pleased to announce the launch of their new website. The company has been offering custom designed systems, installation and friendly customer service since 1999. Founded by Tom Caune, who has vast experience in the security industry with a background in law enforcement and loss prevention, the company has become a highly reputed name in the security systems industry.

With the launch of the new website, the company has made getting security services easier by providing more options for clients to contact the firm, including live chat. About the services, the company representatives said that the company has been providing security services in the area for about 16 years now with expertise lying in aspects like monitoring, alarms, security cameras, fire systems, automation, structured wiring, Intercom and access control.

The success of the company over the span of their work in the field has been attributed to the leadership of Tom Caune. The company officials said that his background in law enforcement, corporate loss prevention, and private investigation gives him a different perspective on safety and security and thus creates a strong foundation for the company.

Piedmont Security Systems has been a go-to name for security services for corporate clients in the area. "We specialize in providing security system solutions for businesses of all shapes and sizes and we pride ourselves on having a unique perspective on security," company representatives said.

The new website of the company is being seen as another expansion step. Specializing in custom security systems, the company, along with its sister companies (Piedmont Protective Services and Piedmont Private Investigations), has come up a long way to become a leading security system provider in North Carolina.
