Sellersburg, Indiana - January 02, 2025 -

The Sunday School Store is excited to announce the launch of its newest offering: the "Best Year Ever 4-Lesson" curriculum for children, just as the new year approaches. This curriculum is aimed at kids aged 6 to 12 and is currently available for free download. This limited-time offer reflects the company's commitment to supporting church communities with limited budgets. By keeping these resources accessible, The Sunday School Store hopes to boost the spiritual growth of young learners with lessons that are both engaging and practical.

The "Best Year Ever" curriculum includes four different lessons, each with its own theme: "No Worries," "Two Paths," "Fresh Starts," and "It's a God Thing." Each lesson comes with a main idea and a gospel connection to help children fully grasp the stories and what they mean. The package also contains discussion questions, printable activities, and craft projects. These components aim to enrich the children's learning experiences and inspire them to dive deeper into their faith.

Tony Kummer, a representative from The Sunday School Store, shared his excitement about this release: "We're excited to offer the 'Best Year Ever 4-Lesson' curriculum for free as a testament to our commitment to supporting churches and ministries, especially those grappling with budgetary challenges. This collection is crafted to nurture a child's understanding and application of biblical principles, empowering them to walk confidently in their faith."

In addition to being a great resource for churches, the launch of the "Best Year Ever" curriculum also serves as a glimpse into a full 52-week curriculum bundle set for 2025. This upcoming bundle will feature an improved lesson format and a comprehensive approach, providing teaching resources that cover a broad range of biblical topics and real-life applications. It's designed to offer a continuous and engaging learning journey throughout the year.
