

DuoCircle Now Offers SSL Certificates To Help Secure Websites and Email Communications

March 14, 2016

March 14, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

DuoCircle, an enterprise spam filtering company, has recently announced an expansion of its core email filtering services. The company announced that it has earned Platinum pricing status from some of the most reputable SSL certificates brands.

The company, which provides Spam Filtering, MX backup, cloud based virus filtering and email retention for over 20,000 businesses, explained that they are increasing their offering in an effort to help make their clients safer online.

Brad Slavin the company CEO states, "We have a reputation with our clients for being an extremely proactive, customer focused and a security conscious company for our clients. We encourage our customers to secure their websites and email communications. To help facilitate this we already support TLS, DKIM and DANE and our expansion into SSL certificates is a natural progression for our business."

DuoCircle provides 24 hours a day and seven days a week support via email, online chat, and phone, and states that they will continue this support for their new product offering as well as for existing products and services.

Those interested in SSL certificate renewals or learning more about any of the products or services that the company offers, or anyone specifically interested in the new SSL certificate products, can learn more and contact the company through their official website or via any of their existing social media channels.
