Century Pools Unveils Innovative Customizable Pool Line for Cutting-Edge Construction Excellence

February 13, 2025

Orangevale, CA - February 13, 2025 -
Century Pools, a family-led business known for turning Northern California's backyards into luxury retreats, is thrilled to introduce their latest line of customizable swimming pools. Established in 1964, the company has made a name for itself in pool construction by focusing on luxurious, custom designs. Their newest offering aims to bring flexibility and practicality to both home and commercial settings. More details about their services can be found on their official website at centurypools.com.

What sets this new pool line apart is the wide array of customization options. Century Pools has designed various pool sizes, shapes, and finishes to fit different tastes and space restrictions. They want to create pools that perfectly suit customers' lifestyles and property needs. Options include lap pools, infinity edges, built-in lighting, and adjustable depths, offering extensive choices for buyers.

Beyond style choices, the line highlights durability and easy upkeep. Century Pools uses advanced construction techniques to ensure their pools withstand the changing weather in Northern California. Patrick O'Neal, a Century Pools rep, says, "Our team has put durability first in this new pool line. We know longevity and maintenance matter to our clients, and our approach to construction shows that."

Century Pools also provides expert consultations to guide clients through planning and installation. This personalized service ensures each project matches client expectations and meets the company's high-quality standards. Safety features are a key part of the new designs, offering slip-resistant surfaces and secure fencing for added peace of mind.

Century Pools is devoted to eco-friendly pool design and construction. The new line includes green features like solar heating systems and energy-efficient pumps, helping to lower environmental impact and provide savings on energy costs.

These new customizable pools are perfect for a variety of commercial spaces, such as hotels, health clubs, and recreation centers, as well as private homes. Century Pools' commitment to meeting changing consumer needs is clear. Their excellent reputation, backed by an A+ rating from the Better Business Bureau, supports their standing as a leader in the pool construction industry.

"Our focus on customer satisfaction and quality craftsmanship has always been central to what we do," said Patrick O'Neal. "We are excited to launch this new line of customizable pools, which reflects both our commitment to innovation and understanding of our customers' needs."

With the introduction of this new line, Century Pools maintains a strong position in the pool construction field. Their dedication to high quality while adapting to consumer trends continues a rich history of turning backyards into personal retreats.

Those who are interested in discovering all that Century Pools has to offer, can find more details on their website. From pool construction to custom swimming pool designs and inground pool installations, Century Pools promises a range of top-notch services. The company also provides full pool repair and maintenance services, ensuring customers enjoy stress-free ownership.
