Swal'lech Construction Celebrates New Era in Home Building on Lopez Island, WA

February 06, 2025

February 06, 2025 -
Swal'lech Construction, located on Lopez Island, Washington, is proudly marking over 18 years of building and remodeling in the local community. Established by Patt and Alan back in 2005, the company is well known in the San Juan Islands for their keen eye for detail and unwavering commitment to top-notch quality in every single project. This dedication has played a big part in shaping the area's architectural landscape, blending charm with practical functionality.

The company specializes in custom home construction, full home remodels, kitchen and bathroom updates, and home additions. Their projects, which include work on Shaw, Orcas, and San Juan islands, highlight their deep knowledge and passion for improving life on the island.

"Building on Lopez Island isn't just about construction; it's about community," says Patt Moore, a reflection of their ongoing commitment to serve the area well. "We aim to craft spaces that truly belong to their natural surroundings and our client's vision."

Swal'lech Construction is all about making dreams a reality. Whether they're building a new home from scratch, updating a kitchen to make it the literal heart of the home, or renovating a bathroom for that extra touch of comfort, they treat each project as a unique opportunity tailored to the client's needs.

Their level of craftsmanship shines through in unique projects like building specialty beach stairs and constructing farm structures, showing they care for every part of island life. The company takes pride not only in their work but also in the relationships they make with clients. They focus on sustainable practices, ensuring they preserve the natural beauty of their surroundings.

For those wanting a closer look into the company, their official website, swallechconstruction.com, offers a thorough insight into their history and services. It's a place to learn more about their team and the personal service they provide.

Swal'lech Construction also puts a big emphasis on being a local, hands-on business. They're active members of the Lopez Island Chamber of Commerce, further reflecting their dedication to the community. Their commitment to quality and clear communication is evident through their website and various social media platforms such as Facebook, Instagram, Pinterest, Google, YouTube, and Houzz.

"Our goal has always been to make the home building and remodeling process as seamless as possible for our clients," Patt Moore adds. "We value their trust and strive to bring their visions to fruition with integrity and diligence."

Fully licensed, bonded, and insured, Swal'lech Construction ensures every step of the building process is handled with professionalism and reliability.

Those interested in learning more are encouraged to visit swallechconstruction.com. The website not only showcases past projects but also offers potential clients a chance to reach out for consultations or gather inspiration for their own ventures. Discover how their experienced team customizes every project to meet individual needs and surrounding environments by visiting swallechconstruction.com.

With a consistent focus on excellence, Swal'lech Construction has built more than just homes. They've created lasting relationships and earned a trusted reputation throughout the San Juan Islands. Whether it's the charm of a custom-built home or the improved functionality of a remodel, they strive to meet the unique desires of every island resident.

As they continue forging new paths within the community, Swal'lech Construction remains open to new projects and collaborations across the islands they proudly serve. Visit swallechconstruction.com to explore their wide range of services, from new home construction to creative remodeling solutions for kitchens and bathrooms.

###

For more information about Swal'lech Construction, contact the company here:Swal'lech ConstructionPatt Moore(360) 468-2830patt@swallechconstruction.com182 Lopez Rd Ste D, Lopez Island, WA 98261

Swal'lech Construction

Swal'lech Construction is a full-service general contracting firm that was established in 2005. Based in Lopez Island, Washington, they specialize not only in residential construction but renovation as well.

Website: https://www.swallechconstruction.com/

Email: patt@swallechconstruction.com

Phone: (360) 468-2830