February 12, 2025 -
SLS Homes, a respected custom home builder located in Tigard, Oregon, is expanding its services across the Greater Portland area. Since 1983, this family-run company has been known for its quality work and detailed craftsmanship in both home remodeling and custom building. They offer various services like kitchen and bathroom makeovers, home additions, accessory dwelling units (ADUs), and complete custom home construction, all personalized to fit each client's unique vision. More about their comprehensive offerings can be explored on their website.

What sets SLS Homes apart is their personalized approach to every project. They involve clients at each step of the process, from the initial idea to the final touches. This collaborative method ensures that the end product not only meets but often surpasses what clients expect. Their team of committed professionals pays close attention to every detail, using their knowledge of building codes and permits to ensure projects progress smoothly.

They are excited to announce a stronger focus on expanding custom home building options in Greater Portland. This shift aims to offer more families homes that truly mirror their lifestyles and preferences. "By broadening our reach, we're able to bring our expertise and dedication to a wider audience. Our goal is to build dreams from the ground up, creating spaces where families can thrive," said Kelly, a representative from SLS Homes.

Their portfolio features various projects, all showcasing the quality and precision clients have come to expect from SLS Homes. These projects range from simple remodels to complicated custom builds, each with a personal touch reflecting the client's style. This flexibility and dedication to client satisfaction have made SLS Homes a well-known name in Tigard and beyond.

Kelly also noted, "At SLS Homes, we're not just building houses; we are crafting places that people are proud to call home. Every project is a partnership, a shared vision between our team and our clients. That synergy is what drives us to deliver exceptional results."

The company prides itself on boosting both the functionality and value of homes, whether it's through a modern, energy-efficient kitchen overhaul, a luxurious bathroom upgrade, or a carefully planned home addition. The team at SLS Homes understands how to create spaces that are functional and beautiful.

Their relationship with clients doesn't just end after the project is done. The company continues to be a helpful resource, ensuring ongoing satisfaction and addressing any future needs clients may have. This dedication to exceptional service builds trust and fosters long-lasting relationships with homeowners.

To mark this new phase, SLS Homes invites those interested in custom homes and remodels to check out their website, where those interested can find detailed information about their services, view galleries of completed projects, and read client testimonials at SLS Homes.

Clients can look forward to a smooth experience from the first consultation to the completion of their project, with a professional team ready to turn their home dreams into reality. As SLS Homes continues to expand its presence in the Greater Portland area, they remain dedicated to upholding the high standards and personalized service that have defined them for over 30 years.

SLS Homes stays true to its mission of delivering custom homes and remodels with quality, integrity, and a personal touch. Their commitment to innovation and client satisfaction makes them a leader in the industry, prepared to meet the needs of homeowners in Tigard and the Greater Portland areas.
