

Employment Agencies Announce Opportunities For Employment Including Temp Jobs

January 25, 2016

January 25, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Possibly the biggest employment agency in this country, Express Certified Professional Staffing, has announced that they now have increased the number of opportunities available for employment, recruitment and even temp work. Each branch of the agency is committed to building excellent career opportunities and excellent businesses, including excellent communities. This is making them a versatile employment agency in the area.

To showcase their commitment to diversity, the employment agencies have recently posted a huge range of new jobs, crossing many industries and many types of contracts. They include permanent contracts for positions such as a Director of Admissions or warehouse staff, as well as temporary openings for positions such as CIN Administrator and systems specialist. People are encouraged to look through the openings and register their interest. At the same time, potential employers are encouraged to contact the agency with their requirements.

The services provided by Express Certified Professional Staffing have been very positively received. "I needed a job to tide me over for a few months," says Anth B. "The other agencies I went to all turned me away, saying they didn't want anyone who publicly announced they had no intention to stay in a job anyway. That is not at all what I meant, I just had a few months between jobs that I wanted to fill. Express totally understood me and got me a position within just a few days. I couldn't ask for more."

For Express Certified Professional Staffing, the goal is to build stronger communities through employment and training, and also by supporting activities that improve the community as a whole. They are always ready to participate in events that focus on this.
