January 23, 2025

New York, New York - January 23, 2025 -
B.D. Killen Music Group is excited to announce that they've reached a big win in their mission to promote outstanding musical talent. The debut single "Singing River Blues" by Ben Killen has been spotlighted on Subba-Cultcha, a well-regarded music press platform recognized for its focus on genuine, high-quality music. Ben's song, which blends traditional blues with personal stories, earned a review titled "Reviving The Heart Of The Blues."

The feature on Subba-Cultcha is another success for B.D. Killen Music Group, which remains dedicated to supporting musicians who excel in genres like Americana, Folk, and Alt-Country. The music management firm strives to bring unique and powerful musical voices into the spotlight.

Killen expressed his excitement about the feature, saying, "Seeing all the hard work on 'Singing River Blues' showcased in this way is humbling, it mirrors the kind of heartfelt music we seek to share with the world." He added, "We're ecstatic Subba-Cultcha spotlighted the emotion and skill in this music, emphasizing the enduring power of the Blues."

"Singing River Blues" is a touching piece, created during a tough-time following the loss of Killen's father. It captures the raw storytelling often missing in today's music. Blending influences from Blues greats like W.C. Handy with his own life experiences, Ben tells a universal story of love, loss, and resilience. This mix of personal sincerity and musical tradition strikes a chord with both new and longtime fans.

Ben's commitment to the music industry extends beyond his songwriting and performance. He is also the force behind CowgirlRadio.com, an online country radio station devoted to highlighting the talent and stories of women in music. This platform endeavors to foster an inclusive and more equitable music industry.

Apart from being featured on Subba-Cultcha, the song supports a good cause. Ben has pledged to donate sales from the first year to charity, in support of the "Living Wage for Musicians Act of 2024," led by Congresswoman R. Tlaib, advocating for better streaming royalties and fair pay for musicians.

Expanding his influence, Ben recently appeared on Yahoo! Finance, where he talked about his fresh approach to overcoming challenges in the music world, especially with streaming platforms. This appearance highlights B.D. Killen Music Group's proactive approach in the digital space, aiming to secure fair compensation for artists.

The company's plan involves promoting music that stays true to deep musical roots while incorporating modern storytelling. Ben's work is a prime example of blending classic influences with a modern twist.
