January 30, 2025 -

The Law Offices of Kevin Cortright Murrieta has announced it is expanding its services to focus on workers' compensation cases in Perris, California. This move is part of the firm's plan to enhance its impact and reach across Riverside County. They aim to provide personalized legal help for workers injured on the job, guiding them through the often complicated claims process.

For more information about their comprehensive legal services, visit the main website at www.cortrightlaw.com to understand how they can assist with workers' compensation and personal injury cases.

The expansion is designed to make life easier for clients by managing all parts of their cases. This includes filing paperwork and representing clients in hearings or appeals. By taking on these responsibilities, the firm seeks to relieve the stress clients often feel during a workers' compensation claim, ensuring they receive the benefits they're due. The firm is prepared to handle cases involving workplace injuries, repetitive strain injuries, occupational diseases, and even denied claims.

Founder Kevin Cortright shared his excitement about the firm's new direction. "Our goal is to stand by the side of every injured worker in Perris. We are committed to ensuring our clients receive the attention and legal support they need in their time of need," he stated.

The firm also offers free consultations for prospective clients, allowing them to explore their legal options without financial pressure. This initiative highlights the firm's dedication to a client-first approach and its enthusiasm for serving the Perris community on a larger scale. The expansion aligns with ongoing efforts to support injured workers and protect their rights in the challenging field of workers' compensation.

As part of their new plans, a new online tool has been introduced to help local residents manage claims more effectively. This tool allows the firm to meet community needs with modern solutions. By utilizing technology, the firm aims to simplify the process, making it less overwhelming for those in search of help. To learn more about these tools and how they can benefit clients, you can visit their dedicated sections on the official site, www.cortrightlaw.com.

Kevin Cortright added, "We believe that every worker deserves fair compensation for their injuries. Our new tools and expanded services equip us to fight for these rights more effectively."
