Texas Weed Syndicate Expands THCA Flower Line with Fresh Options for Cannabis Enthusiasts

January 29, 2025

January 29, 2025 -
Texas Weed Syndicate (TWS) is thrilled to announce that it's expanding its THCA Flower line, now offering more strains and pricing options. The company is focused on meeting the varied tastes of cannabis fans while staying committed to quality and freshness. Customers can rely on getting products that match their preferences.

At TWS, keeping products fresh is a top priority. Mimicking a method similar to a popular fast-food chain, TWS only packages THCA Flower once an order comes in. Flowers are stored in airtight Cvault containers with a consistent 62 percent humidity, preserving their natural flavors and cannabinoids. Dom, a spokesperson for the company, highlights this dedication: "We believe that delivering freshness is paramount, which is why we take great care in how we store and ship our products."

For anyone curious about these products, they are encouraged to visit the site texasweedsyndicate.com where a wide selection of THCA Flower strains is available. Each strain is carefully grown indoors to ensure high quality. Options like Lemon Cherry Gelato and Apple Tartz are part of the diverse lineup.

In an effort to reach more customers, TWS has started a wholesale division. This new offering includes bulk and loose THCA Flower, along with other finished products, aimed at distributors and store owners. The wholesale option provides access to top-notch cannabis products at competitive prices. Interested partners can find more about the wholesale offerings by following specific links online texasweedsyndicate.com/wholesale.

Dom elaborates on this new venture: "Opening our wholesale division allows us to share our premium THCA Flower with a broader audience. It's an exciting development that aligns with our mission to deliver quality cannabis products to our customers and partners nationwide."

Over the past six years, TWS has made a name for itself in the cannabis industry. Their products go beyond just flowers, offering an array of cannabis items like Delta 9 THC & CBD gummies, THCA vapes, and CBD edibles. They ensure transparency by providing Certificates of Analysis for all their products, assuring customers of both safety and potency.

For those looking to purchase or learn more, readers are invited to visit the site texasweedsyndicate.com. There, they'll find a dedicated section detailing the company's commitment to quality. This includes information on how the products are grown, stored, and delivered, helping them make informed decisions.

Texas Weed Syndicate also features a detailed FAQ section, addressing questions about their products and the legalities around buying cannabis products in different states. This shows the company's dedication to not only offering products but also educating consumers on safe and legal cannabis use.

Celebrating its sixth year in business, TWS continues to commit to product quality and customer satisfaction. For further information on becoming a wholesale partner, interested parties can check out the wholesale section at texasweedsyndicate.com/wholesale, which provides all the details needed to start a partnership with TWS.
