This initiative is part of the company?s ongoing efforts to promote energy efficiency and sustainability within the local community. By offering these assessments at no charge, Revise, Inc. aims to empower homeowners with actionable insights into their energy usage while providing solutions to reduce usage and environmental impact.

As energy prices continue to fluctuate and concerns about climate change grow, households are looking for ways to save money and reduce their carbon footprint. The Mass Save® No-Cost Home Energy Assessment conducted by Revise, Inc. program is designed to address these concerns directly. The assessment involves a thorough evaluation of a home?s energy performance, identifying areas where energy efficiency can be improved. Trained home energy contractors conduct the assessments, which include inspections of insulation, heating and cooling systems, windows and doors, and appliances. The process is tailored to provide homeowners with a clear understanding of where energy is being wasted and how to address it.

The service includes personalized recommendations for improvements, as well as detailed information on available incentives and rebates for energy-efficient upgrades. Through partnerships with local utility providers and state programs, Revise, Inc. connects homeowners with resources to help offset the cost of these upgrades. Popular recommendations often include adding insulation, sealing air leaks, and upgrading to high-efficiency heating and cooling systems. Many of these upgrades can result in immediate savings on energy expenses and contribute to long-term reductions in energy consumption.

To make the program as accessible as possible, Revise, Inc. has streamlined the scheduling process. Residents can easily book an assessment through the company?s website or by phone, with appointments available at convenient times to accommodate busy schedules. The assessments typically take a few hours to complete, and homeowners receive a detailed report summarizing the findings and next steps.

In addition to financial benefits, improving energy efficiency has a positive impact on the environment.

Energy-efficient homes use less electricity and fuel, reducing greenhouse gas emissions and the strain on local energy infrastructure. By participating in this program, Barnstable County residents have the opportunity to play an active role in creating a more sustainable future for their community.

The Mass Save® No-Cost Home Energy Assessment conducted by Revise, Inc. program is open to all single-family homeowners and tenants with landlord approval in Barnstable County.
