January 25, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Denver CO: Jon Urbana is pleased to announce the launch of a new GoFundMe campaign. He is devoting the proceeds of the campaign to a local non-profit organization called Earth Force. The founder is a resident and native of Denver and the co-founder of a lacrosse camp called Next Level Lacrosse Camp. The purpose of the campaign is to mobilize youth to become activists and participants in improving their local environments. The emphasis of the actions of such activists is to emphasize the beauty of the natural earth.

The goal of the Earth Force campaign is to raise $1,750 for the purpose of increasing youth participation in environmental issues. All funds raised by the campaign will go directly to Earth Force campaign for its programs.

Earth Force is a Denver non-profit organization dedicated to empower youth activists and teach them about the importance of a clean and energy independent future. These characteristics are in line with the values of the campaign founder.

Jon Urbana says his childhood in the state of Colorado has taught him an appreciation of its beauty. He recognizes the importance of the health of the environment. As the operator of a lacrosse camp each summer, Urbana says he is inspired by the teens who attend the camp and their shared interest in environmental causes. Urbana hopes to be able to shape the next generation to share his passion for the environment.

Working with youth on a regular basis is one of the ways in which Earth Force is able to improve the level of care and commitment which the lacrosse campers show for the environment. Earth Force focuses on three programming components, currently in 52 communities, throughout Canada and the United States. Denver is one of those communities which has embraced the concepts of the organization.
