

Centument Review and Positive Rating Announced for New Product

January 25, 2016

January 25, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Centument Review is pleased to announce a wealth of positive feedback for new binary options software developed by founder and creator Gerald Reed. Reed is the owner of Centument LTD and the creative force behind the revolutionary new asset trading software package. The software which was commissioned by Gerald Reed, former successful Wall Street trader, was designed with a single major purpose?to allow even beginning traders to capture the kinds of profits previously known only to a few high volume experts in the markets.

The company started by Gerald Reed, Centument LTD, and the software package which was developed, has been thoroughly reviewed and vetted by widely recognized firms and financial organizations such as Money Magazine, Bloomberg Financial Times and CNN Money. The software was pronounced helpful for achieving asset increase levels which were almost unheard of prior to the launch of the software package. Not every trade is a winning one, but using the software to do the trading means the most likely profitable trades are identified and traded. A minor deposit of as little as $250 can achieve win rates at 74 percent to 80 percent.

The cost for the software is currently set at zero. There is no charge to access the software online and be ready to begin earning income growth quickly. Setting up a brokerage account to begin the trading process is also an easy and fast process. A small deposit will allow the capital growth process to begin for novice traders and experts alike.

The company says that the programmers recruited to put together the software are the best in the business. Some of them were also skilled traders, at the level of Gerald Reed himself. The software was designed for people uninformed about asset trading so that even beginners are able to make use of the inclusive trading package developed by the programmers. The type of returns which have been accrued by those using the software on a test basis means that even beginners will be happy with the results, and the positive feedback is already indicating that the software is a hit with users.

Product name: Centument LTD

Product Creator: Gerald Reed

Website: <http://centuments.com>

###

For more information about Centument LTD , contact the company here:Centument LTD

Centument LTD

Powered by PressAdvantage.com