January 25, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Las Vegas NV: Commercial and residential window tinting contractor Bryan Nielsen of PacificTint Las Vegas is pleased to offer a free consultation for commercial or residential window tinting projects. The firm is the oldest authorized 3M window tint contractor in the region around Las Vegas. The business launched in September 2004 and the firm carries the highest possible rating with the Better Business Bureau. The estimates of the cost of a project are always free and carry no obligation.

The installation of 3M window films includes solar control, security, decorative and graffiti control for both commercial and residential applications. In addition, to the reduction of the sun's glare, the commercial window tinting efforts adds an aesthetic appeal to any building, even if the architectural features of the structure are less than attractive. The colors and shades are available in a wide range suitable for the particular building application.

Tinting commercial building windows help to reduce the irritating glare of the sun and limits hot spots on the surface of the building. Control of the sun's rays will be beneficial for employees who must work near windows. Productivity will be improved and the health of the employee will be less likely to be compromised by excessive UV rays. More can be found at <http://pacifictintlv.com>.

For residential tinting applications in the Las Vegas area, Pacific Tint makes a wide range of shades and colors available to homeowners. Residential tinting protects the interior of the home as well as limiting the level of damaging ultraviolet rays. This feature helps to protect against skin cancer. Glare reduction inside the home and better energy efficiency throughout the home are a benefit for utility costs.

The customer service philosophy is to ensure that each customer receives the highest quality products and installation services. The free consultation will help to inform the prospective client about the various options available.
