March 06, 2025

MT PLEASANT, SC - March 06, 2025 -

Disaster Plus, a top restoration service in Mount Pleasant, South Carolina, is excited to announce improvements in its water damage remediation services. With more than 37 years of experience, the company offers vital help to homeowners and businesses dealing with property damage. Their focus on Disaster Plus water damage restoration has made them a dependable partner when quick action is necessary to prevent permanent damage.

Acting fast and effectively in water damage situations is crucial. In Charleston's humid environment, water damage can quickly lead to mold issues, making immediate action even more important. Disaster Plus uses advanced methods and equipment, such as truck-mounted extraction units and specialized systems for drying hardwood floors, to efficiently remove moisture and repair affected areas. More information on their comprehensive water damage restoration services can be found on their website.

Keating Norris, representing Disaster Plus, says, "Our goal is to respond quickly to water emergencies and prevent additional damage. We know how distressing these situations can be, and our team is dedicated to providing professional and compassionate service." Norris highlights that their commitment is reflected in consistent 5-star ratings from satisfied customers.

The company's water damage remediation services address a variety of problems, from leaks in air conditioners, appliances, and plumbing to storm-induced flooding. They also offer thorough crawls space cleanups to handle floodwaters. For those concerned about mold, their mold remediation services are detailed on their website, where they describe their process and expertise.

One significant advantage of Disaster Plus is their 24/7 availability, ensuring that help is always a phone call away. They collaborate with all insurance companies to make the process easier for property owners, alleviating stress during tough times. Many customer testimonials highlight their reliable, family-focused service.

Beyond technology, Disaster Plus is committed to maintaining strong community connections and providing local service throughout the Lowcountry, including Charleston and North Charleston. Their website and online resources expand their reach, offering helpful information to those in need.

Norris mentions, "The support we receive from the community has been amazing. Having the trust of our neighbors to care for their homes and businesses is an honor we highly value." This trust is seen in their 5.0 review score from over 200 customer reviews, where clients often praise their attentive and efficient service.

Disaster Plus shines in the area of mold remediation. They use top-notch equipment to prevent mold and ensure a thorough clean-up and restoration. By addressing problems like leaky pipes and storm damage quickly, they help reduce additional restoration costs and save more household furnishings.

The company's proactive approach to water damage includes educating customers on prevention strategies, stressing the importance of quick action if leaks or flooding occur. Their blog and other resources reflect this dedication, providing guidance long before their services are needed. Discover more about their educational resources and tips on their website.
