

Pop49 Inc. Redefines Experiential Marketing with Custom-Built Interactive Activations

March 07, 2025

MISSISSAUGA, ON - March 07, 2025 -

Mississauga, ON ? As brands compete for consumer attention in an increasingly crowded marketplace, Pop49 Inc. is changing the game with interactive marketing activations designed to turn ordinary events into unforgettable brand moments. Specialising in experiential marketing manufacturing, the company creates eye-catching, interactive displays, branded games, and custom event installations that captivate audiences and drive real engagement. By merging creativity with expert craftsmanship, Pop49 helps businesses create marketing moments that go beyond traditional advertising, making an impact where it matters most?face-to-face with their audience.

Today?s consumers expect more than static ads or passive promotions. They want to touch, play, and interact with the brands they support. Pop49 brings brands to life by designing marketing tools that encourage participation and create emotional connections. From mechanical and digital games that invite friendly competition to touchless interactive kiosks that provide engaging brand storytelling, each product is built with a purpose: to draw people in, create excitement, and leave a lasting impression.

Whether a brand is launching a new product, exhibiting at a trade show, or hosting a promotional event, Pop49 delivers customised solutions that turn ordinary spaces into immersive brand experiences. The company?s diverse portfolio includes high-impact trade show booths, prize wheels, sampling demo carts and tables, gamified brand activations, and unique pop-up installations. Every project is designed to not only grab attention but also encourage meaningful interaction, reinforcing brand identity while delivering measurable results.

?Marketing isn?t just about being seen?it?s about being remembered,? says Ricky Pacheco, Director at Pop49 Inc. ?We build marketing tools that invite consumers to step in and engage, whether it?s through a custom-built arcade game, a touchscreen display, or a hands-on activation that creates excitement. The brands that stand out today are the ones that create interactive moments people want to talk about and share.?

One of Pop49?s biggest strengths is its ability to take a brand?s vision and turn it into a physical, functional marketing tool. With a team of expert designers, 3D modellers, and fabricators, the company works closely with clients to bring unique marketing concepts to life, ensuring each activation is tailored to specific brand goals. Pop49?s hands-on approach ensures that every activation is visually impressive and built for durability, functionality, and ease of use at live events.

The demand for interactive marketing continues growing as businesses recognise the power of engagement-driven campaigns. From global brands looking to create viral moments to small businesses aiming to make a lasting impression at a local event, Pop49 provides solutions that make an impact. The company?s ability to integrate the latest trends, materials, and technology into its builds has made it a trusted partner for brands looking to stay ahead of the curve.

?Every event or marketing campaign is an opportunity to connect with an audience in a way that sticks,? says Ricky. ?We help brands make the most of those moments by giving them marketing tools that invite people in, spark excitement, and create real engagement. When consumers actively participate in a brand?s story, they?re far more likely to remember it?and that?s where real marketing success happens.?

As marketing strategies continue to shift away from passive advertising and toward interaction-driven campaigns, Pop49 remains at the forefront, delivering innovative solutions that make brand engagement more exciting and effective. By focusing on custom-built activations that encourage participation, the company is setting new standards for experiential marketing, helping brands create moments that people not only enjoy but also share with others.
