

Swiss Innovator Högg Liftsysteme AG Enhances Accessibility with New Wheelchair Lifts in Switzerland

March 18, 2025

Wattwil, St. Gallen - March 18, 2025 -
Högg Liftsysteme AG, a top Swiss company specializing in mobility solutions, has introduced a new line of home elevators. These elevators are designed to make homes more accessible for people with mobility challenges. Known for quality and safety, Högg Liftsysteme AG has expanded its product range to include wheelchair lifts, seat lifts, and platform lifts, among others. The latest elevators are noted for smoother and quieter operation, highlighting the company's focus on comfort and efficiency.

For more than 30 years, Högg Liftsysteme AG has been committed to creating Swiss-made solutions that focus on safety and ease of use. The company has offices in St. Gallen, Bern, and Lausanne and offers tailored mobility solutions for both private homes and commercial spaces. Their products are designed to help people move easily between floors, aiming to improve quality of life.

D. Kressig from Högg Liftsysteme AG commented, "We aim to provide innovative and practical solutions for individuals facing mobility barriers. Our new home elevators will greatly enhance accessibility, allowing users to move smoothly and confidently within their spaces."

The company offers several solutions, including vertical lift systems that are suitable for use both indoors and outdoors. These don't require a lift pit or machine room, making them easy to operate. The company's products are designed for various types of staircases, whether they're straight, spiral, or curved. Special solutions are also developed to meet unique needs, showing the company's versatility and expertise. Included in their product line are ceiling lifts, useful in buildings where space is at a premium. These can fit in various structures, including apartment buildings, ensuring safety standards are met while keeping pathways clear. Högg Liftsysteme AG also offers second-hand lifts and rental options, providing cost-effective solutions for short-term needs.

D. Kressig added, "We strive to offer high-quality products that meet the Swiss standards of engineering. Our focus is on improving accessibility and mobility, making sure our lifts exceed customer expectations."

The company is as committed to customer service as it is to quality. With reliable support available in St. Gallen, Bern, and Lausanne, customers can depend on them. They are backed by a five-year guarantee, offering peace of mind and long-term satisfaction.
