

Lee & James Real Estate Photography Announces St. Patrick?s Day New Client Trial

March 04, 2025

PORTLAND, OR - March 04, 2025 -
Lee & James Real Estate Photography is celebrating St. Patrick?s Day with a special limited-time offer available until March 31st. New clients have the chance to enhance their property listings with a complimentary trial of their services, featuring 32 high-dynamic-range photos at no cost. This exclusive offer provides potential clients an opportunity to experience the skill and quality of Lee & James without any financial commitment. It reflects their dedication to helping real estate professionals present properties in the best light within an increasingly competitive market.

Michael Larrabee, co-owner of Lee & James, shared, "We recognize that investing in professional real estate photography can be a big decision for some agents. With our St. Patrick?s Day special, we want to showcase the impact high-quality images can have on selling a property. This trial allows agents to experience the benefits firsthand while taking advantage of a festive promotion."

Lee & James Real Estate Photography operates in Portland, with another branch in Atlanta. Their team consists of experienced Portland real estate photographers who are committed to delivering top-tier services. They offer a variety of solutions tailored to real estate professionals, including professional photography, videography, headshots, home cleaning, and staging. Their goal is to ensure every property looks its best when presented to potential buyers.

A defining feature of Lee & James is their same-day delivery service, allowing real estate professionals to list and promote properties faster in today's dynamic market. Using cutting-edge equipment and advanced techniques, the team captures stunning property images that highlight key selling points, ensuring listings stand out. This emphasis on efficiency and quality has made Lee & James a trusted partner for real estate agents. More details about their photography and videography services are available online.

In addition to property photography, Lee & James offers professional headshots to help real estate agents maintain a polished and professional marketing presence. According to Michael Larrabee, "A strong personal brand is just as important as a well-presented property. Our headshot service ensures agents project confidence and professionalism, aligning their image with the quality of homes they represent."

Lee & James also provide home cleaning and staging services to ensure properties are in pristine condition before being photographed. Their team carefully arranges furniture and decor to enhance a home's interior, creating visually appealing images that generate interest among buyers. Their online platform provides further insight into their home staging process and how they maximize a property?s appeal.

The St. Patrick?s Day promotion offering free real estate photography trials is part of Lee & James? broader mission to make high-quality services more accessible while strengthening client relationships. Their reputation for straightforward pricing, premium photography, and valuable extras has earned them the trust of notable real estate firms, including Next Home Realty Connection, EXP Realty, and Coldwell Banker Bain. By offering complimentary photos to new clients, they aim to further establish their presence and expand their client base.

This exclusive offer is available until March 31st. New clients can take advantage of the free real estate photography trial by contacting Lee & James through their website. The process is simple and efficient, ensuring agents receive their high-quality images quickly.
