January 28, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Bristol UK: Gwen Hales of Juggling Inferno offers wedding entertainment ideas to couples looking for unique and memorable festivities to celebrate their wedding day. Under Ms. Hales, who purchased controlling interest in the troupe early in 2013, the solo and group performers have added fire and circus performances plus ?Glow Shows? to the original single performer fire acts. Although the venue is the determining factor on whether or not the wedding entertainment can include fire performances, Ms. Hales will work with clients to create the most memorable entertainment.

Under the management of Gwen Hales, more focus has been placed on multi-performer acts and entertainment. She arranged choreography and artistic direction of the performers. The travels of the troupe encompassed locations throughout the United Kingdom and internationally. She has brought the entertainment value and choreography of the troupe to a world class level.

Although other elements have been added to the original acts, wedding entertainment is still a major focus of the group. The goal is to make each performance memorable and unique. The acts can be arranged for an indoor location or outdoors. Advance planning and approval for some venues is necessary, due to the safety factor. The original juggling with fire acts under the founder of the troupe, Tim Marston, has been enhanced with multiple performers, choreography and humour. Tim still performs with the group, but as a solo performer.

Because not all venues permit pyrotechnics, Ms.Hales will work with the client to determine which aspects of the performance can be included for the location. One alternative is the use of high tech glow sticks. Safety for the guests and the performers is a prime factor. The manager is able to work with clients to create themed entertainment to go along with the wedding theme. Each performer is able to provide unique entertainment for wedding receptions and other events.
