

Australian Internet Marketing Company Webgator Launches New Services

February 03, 2016

February 03, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Webgator Pty Ltd, based in Brisbane, Queensland, is proud to announce they have introduced new services to enable them to attract a more diverse customer base. This is in response to the news that more Australian companies will be looking for Professional Grade SEO services this year. There has been a wide-spread dissatisfaction with Australian digital marketing firms and Webgator Pty Ltd aims to set itself apart by addressing these needs.

Carson Sharein from Webgator Pty Ltd says: "The world of digital marketing in this country has been thrown upside down. We believe too many companies have started to crop up who simply don't have the expertise they claim to have. We have reviewed all of our offerings and guarantee that we have the skills and knowledge required to make a difference. We are happy to see that some key companies have already contacted us for further information."

Webgator prides itself in providing a unique approach to internet marketing. Consumers have hailed it as 'a breath of fresh air', particularly because the market is now so turbulent. As a result, major players from retail, travel, corporate and professional service industries are just some of those that have expressed interest in using Webgator's professional grade SEO services.

One of the things that sets Webgator apart is that they empower the consumer with knowledge of what needs doing and how it gets done. This is why they offer a completely free SEO audit tool through their website. They also point people to the Google SEO Start Up tool. This tool provides advice, information and guidance to businesses interested in what SEO actually is and what it can do for them. It clearly highlights situations where someone does or does not need SEO.

The work already completed by Webgator has been very positively reviewed by their many clients. "Exceptional service," says Jared S. "Highly recommended. Amazing results. We have dealt with many SEO companies in the past but Webgator beats them all hands down. Carson at Webgator handled our company's online marketing, search engine optimization, and website design. We look forward to an ongoing business relationship."

Webgator also encourages everyone to follow them on Facebook, where they intend to make a huge announcement soon.
