Derbyshire, England - April 02, 2025 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Watertight Homes, a well-established company from Leeds, West Yorkshire, has just announced they're expanding their services to Halifax. With more than twenty years of experience, the company aims to help families and businesses across Yorkshire keep their properties safe from water damage. Their services cover everything from damp proofing to basement conversions, and they're now including a focus on basement waterproofing for the folks in Halifax.

Watertight Homes has noticed more people need reliable ways to stop water and moisture problems in their basements. To deal with this, they've introduced custom basement waterproofing solutions. These are designed to prevent damage to the structure of buildings, mold growth, and health hazards. They use modern techniques, like cavity drain membranes, to efficiently direct water away while following British Standard BS 8102 guidelines. These systems are known for being easy to maintain and are backed by a decade-long guarantee.

"Expanding our basement waterproofing services to Halifax is a step towards enhancing safety and living conditions for families and businesses in the region," said Mathew Milner, a representative of Watertight Homes. "The introduction of our tailored waterproofing solutions allows us to help preserve the structural integrity of properties while safeguarding the health of occupants from the adverse effects of moisture. Our commitment is demonstrated through our comprehensive services and 10-year guarantee, which underscores our confidence in our workmanship and solutions."

With this new expansion, Watertight Homes offers a free basement survey for Halifax homeowners. This helps them understand their specific water issues and choose the right solution. Their waterproofing services also include classic tanking systems and interior drainage solutions that effectively manage water pressures around properties.

This focus on basement waterproofing is part of a larger goal for Watertight Homes, which includes expert inspections, risk assessments, and consultations. As an approved provider with TUG & CGS Insurance, the quality and reliability of their systems offer clients peace of mind. By moving into Halifax, they are not just expanding their service area but also showing their commitment to addressing common property problems with skill and speed.

A special feature of Watertight Homes' service is their YouTube video resource. The video, titled "Watertight Homes - Basement Waterproofing Halifax - Video," gives in-depth information about their methods and provides a visual guide on the benefits of their services. It aims to inform residents about the importance of proper basement waterproofing and illustrates the company's approach to tackling water damage.

With this move into Halifax, Watertight Homes sets itself up as a leading figure in property preservation throughout Yorkshire. Beyond basement waterproofing, they offer treatments for woodworm, cavity wall ties, and timber preservation, among other maintenance needs. Their recent emphasis on basement waterproofing highlights their focus on adapting to what their customers need amid changing environmental factors and property challenges.

"As we bring our services to Halifax, our goal remains to provide peace of mind and preserve the natural beauty and safety of homes," added Mathew Milner. "Our dedication to employing standards-compliant methods is matched by our focus on education and client support. This expansion reflects our mission to enhance living environments, one property at a time."
