

Bestselling Calf Compression Sleeves Now Available In More Sizes

February 01, 2016

February 01, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

BeVisible Sports, a sportswear business in San Francisco, CA, is proud to announce that they have introduced new sizes for their popular calf compression sleeves. Additionally, the sleeves are currently the best selling sleeves on Amazon, having received numerous positive reviews. Based on the popularity of the sleeves and requests by customers, they are now available in three sizes: Small - Medium, Large - XL and XL - XXL. Sandy B. from BeVisible Sports says: "Our compression sleeves have been very popular on Amazon for some time. However, customers were asking us to make them available in more sizes, as people aren't generic. We couldn't agree more and are very happy to now offer these sleeves in a wider range of sizes."

The Small to Medium sleeves fit a calf size of 12 to 15 inches, the Large to XL size fits calf sizes from 15 inches to 18 inches and the XL to XXL sleeves fit calf sizes from 18 inches to 20.5 inches. Calf size is measured as a circumference at the largest part of the calf. Each size has been meticulously designed to provide true graduated compression.

Calf compression sleeves have grown in popularity over the last few years. In fact all compression wear has seen growth. Professional players as well as those who play sports for recreation are often found using compression wear whilst playing sport or to help them in recovery. The acronym RICE - Rest, Ice, Compression and Elevation are often used as a guide line of the program to follow when recuperating.

Many customers have found the calf sleeves to be very useful during day to day work as well as in active mode while working out or engaging in sports. Some customers have also found it useful for managing shin splints. Reviews have highlighted the various benefits that people have experience by wearing the sleeves. In her customer review, Angela Gabbert says: "So far I am so thankful I ordered these. I have struggled with shin splints for several months; tried stretching and daily icing. I have worn these calf compression sleeves for two runs and a few yoga classes so far. My shin splints are not completely gone but significantly better! Hoping to continue to see this improvement."

BeVisible Sports prides itself on being able to offer high quality products and excellent customer service. Says spokesperson Sandy B - "We are a very customer results focused company. Our entire business philosophy is built around helping our customers become their best. In fact this is the tag line for our your company and we base our success solely on the value we bring to our customers through our products".

BeVisible Sports has built up a strong following in the US Market on social media with over 39,000 likes on its Facebook page and is also launching its products in the UK and European markets.
