January 27, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Boston MA: Darrius Glover CEO of LLANA is pleased to announce the upcoming launch of a new high-end multifunctional leather bag for women scheduled for early summer 2016. Glover says the product is not only attractive, but is functional thanks to the unique design and materials used in its construction. The bag has several features which make it a winning design for the modern woman who has multiple types of activities going in her day. The luxury bag is the first high-end women's accessory that is engineered to allow women to confidently move from the executive suite to the gym or yoga class and back again with complete confidence.

The exterior of the bag is leather in a classic design which reminds wearers to the oversize aesthetics of a Birkin. It is designed to be able to be carried during daily activities in the gym, yoga class or executive office. The bag is sizable enough to carry a personal yoga mat easily and is able to open wide in order to reveal specially designed zippered compartments. These compartments offer ample space for all of the items which a busy woman needs during a day.

For fastidious women, the idea of carrying gym sneakers and workout clothing in a designer bag is suspect, yet a unique feature of LLANA is its Wool Fresh technology. The engineered lining of the bag uses natural wool to offer three times the odor-fighting power of wool alone. This characteristic of the product makes it more powerful than that of cotton or synthetic fibers.

The designers of the bag are confident of the unique wool fabric. Any item can be stowed in the bag without the risk of it smelling like a locker room. Even gym sneakers get a compartment of their own. LLANA reflects an opportunity for women to obtain luxury fitness gear.
