

Commercial Plumbing Services In Orange County Help Avoid Displaced Tenant Issues

February 01, 2016

February 01, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Rooter Hero Plumbing of Orange County offers state-of-the-art commercial plumbing services to help landlords avoid displaced tenant issues. Recent events that have left tenants displaced because of plumbing problems have prompted the Orange, CA-based company to remind landlords that there are preventive measures that can be taken to avoid these unfortunate situations. Their popular preventive services are available throughout the county at reasonable prices and are designed to fit with all schedules.

Rooter Hero Plumbing's Jessica Perrault says, "Back in April of 2015, a Walmart store in Pico Rivera, CA, closed its doors indefinitely due to plumbing problems that the company says were a result of persistent leaks and clogs. This incident laid off nearly 500 workers and left shoppers inconvenienced. As a commercial property owner, the last thing you would want is for an incident like this to happen to your business or to your tenants that rent space in your building. By taking swift action when small problems pop up and making routine maintenance a part of your action plan, you can have a better handle on plumbing issues."

As a commercial plumbing company in Orange County, Rooter Hero Plumbing offers a number of specific services to help prevent such issues. They believe that prevention is the best solution and the lowest-cost option, and encourage businesses to contact them as soon as they notice a problem. Some of the services they offer, for instance, include commercial drain cleaning and pipe cleaning through their Scour Jet service. Naturally, should something go wrong, the company is also on call to resolve any issues, thereby minimizing downtime and displacement.

At the same time, Rooter Hero Plumbing feels it is important that tenants are educated on how to properly use their plumbing, preventing many significant plumbing issues from occurring at all. The company is happy to work with commercial property owners to provide training and advice in terms of what the responsibilities are for both the tenant and the property owner.

Rooter Hero Plumbing wants landlords and building managers to know that their licensed plumbers are here to save the day. "If you have any plumbing issue," adds Jessica Perrault, "please contact us straight away." The company can be contacted by scheduling service online at <https://rooterhero.com/orange-county> or by telephone at 714-408-2390.
