January 29, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

The Gulf Coast Group of Downing-Frye Realty in Naples, FL, is proud to announce that they provide confidential buyer and seller representation for the Naples luxury real estate market. They are tech-savvy and utilize highly innovative methods for marketing and selling luxury homes and condominiums in Naples. Their Naples FL real estate services have been very positively received by their clients.

"We are here to assist our clients with finding luxury homes and condominiums that are available in the Naples area, or to assist them with selling theirs," says Scott Twait of The Gulf Coast Group. "However, confidentiality must be maintained when working with many clients within the luxury real estate market. Sellers often don't want people to know that their properties are vacant, and some buyers don't want everyone to know where they are purchasing a home. Since we specialize in luxury properties within Old Naples, The Moorings, and Park Shore areas, we fully understand the sensitive nature of these transactions."

Their meticulous attention to every detail during the representation of their clients in the Naples luxury real estate market have been very positively received. "Angela and Scott are a pleasure to work with," as stated by one of their happy clients. "Their knowledge of the Naples market was key in finding the perfect condo for us. The focus was on identifying the criteria that were important to us, and highlighting the pros and cons of different properties and locations. Everything was handled efficiently, professionally, and with personal care and attention."

The Gulf Coast Group currently offers a number of luxury homes and condominiums in Naples. They are a unique team that serves their client's high-end residential and investment real estate needs. They are on track to become one of the premiere luxury real estate teams in Naples, and their performance in today's real estate market are perfect examples of that. Their services are very personable, professional, and reliable, focusing on making the entire experience much more enjoyable.
