April 08, 2025

SMYRNA, GA - April 08, 2025 -
GrinderCrusherScreen, a leader in new and used recycling equipment and parts, has announced a new commitment to feature select manufacturers directly on its website. This move reflects the company?s focus on making it easier for customers to research and compare top-tier equipment. The company now features McCloskey International, Anaconda Equipment, and Astec on dedicated pages, giving users direct access to brand-specific information, listings, and product updates. These pages are part of a broader strategy to simplify the search and buying process for companies in the recycling, construction, and aggregate industries.

Rick Cohen, owner of GrinderCrusherScreen, explained that the decision to feature these three manufacturers is based on their strong reputation and demand in the North American market. By creating brand-specific landing pages, GrinderCrusherScreen allows customers to view all available machines from each manufacturer in one place. This helps customers make informed choices faster, without needing to browse multiple sections or leave the site.

The McCloskey International page provides a clear view of all McCloskey equipment currently available through GrinderCrusherScreen. This includes crushers, screeners, conveyors, and shredders. McCloskey machines are known for their performance, ease of use, and durability. GrinderCrusherScreen works closely with buyers and sellers across the country to offer both new and used options, with up-to-date listings that reflect real-time availability. The brand page allows users to explore key product features, view photos, and request more information directly from the site.

Anaconda Equipment also now has a dedicated page. This manufacturer has built a strong presence in the industry with its efficient and mobile solutions. GrinderCrusherScreen offers access to Anaconda?s range of scalping screens, stackers, and trommels. The listings page for Anaconda Equipment is regularly updated to reflect changes in stock. Customers can browse current inventory and submit inquiries with a simple contact form. This streamlined layout helps reduce time spent searching and allows companies to focus on selecting equipment that fits their exact needs.

Astec, another well-known name in heavy equipment, is now featured on its own page as well. Astec products serve the asphalt, aggregate, and mining markets. GrinderCrusherScreen offers access to Astec equipment known for their production power and reliability. By visiting the Astec brand page, customers can see what units are currently available, along with photos and key details. All Astec inventory on the site includes clear descriptions, current condition, and seller contact options.

Each brand page shares the same layout and user experience. This makes navigation easy and keeps the process consistent for all site visitors. Rick Cohen emphasized that these changes are about giving buyers more control. GrinderCrusherScreen?s team understands that equipment purchases require careful review. By grouping machines by brand, the site removes confusion and allows for easier comparisons. The pages also support GrinderCrusherScreen?s growing dealer relationships and help promote each manufacturer to new audiences.

The website updates also show GrinderCrusherScreen?s continued investment in digital growth. With more equipment buyers relying on online platforms, GrinderCrusherScreen has worked to make its site more informative and efficient. Featuring top brands with dedicated sections helps users get straight to what they are looking for. In a market where time matters, this improvement allows customers to view inventory, compare machines, and reach out without extra steps.

GrinderCrusherScreen has spent years developing its presence in the heavy equipment sector. Founded and owned by Rick Cohen, the company has become a reliable partner for customers across the United States. GrinderCrusherScreen focuses on offering used and new equipment for recycling and aggregate use. The company?s inventory includes grinders, crushers, shredders, screening plants, and more. GrinderCrusherScreen also provides parts and service support, helping customers keep their machines running long after the sale.

By working directly with buyers and sellers, GrinderCrusherScreen keeps listings fresh and accurate. This direct approach allows the company to respond quickly to market changes and customer requests. Featuring brand pages for McCloskey International, Anaconda Equipment, and Astec reflects this same goal of staying connected to what customers value most. GrinderCrusherScreen is not a manufacturer but provides an important platform for connecting buyers with quality machines from trusted names.

The company invites both equipment buyers and sellers to explore the new brand pages. Each one offers up-to-date listings, photos, and forms to request more information or schedule a viewing. Whether a customer is looking for a specific model or wants to see what is available in general, these brand sections provide a fast and simple way to access equipment details. The goal is to remove extra steps and help users get to the information they need with minimal effort.

GrinderCrusherScreen?s full inventory remains searchable across the site, but these new brand-focused sections add a more organized layer for customers who already have preferred manufacturers in mind. McCloskey International, Anaconda Equipment, and Astec represent the first phase of this approach. The company plans to continue evaluating how users interact with the site and may add more featured brands in the future based on customer interest and inventory availability.
