RALEIGH, NC - April 29, 2025 -
Apex Orthopaedic Spine & Neurology (Apex OSN) has announced that it has expanded its services to better treat injuries from car, motorcycle, truck, and other vehicle accidents. This move strengthens its standing as a prominent provider for those seeking a car accident doctor. The clinic now offers a more comprehensive approach to care, ensuring that patients get timely, tailored treatment for their specific injuries.

A core focus for Apex OSN is on treating injuries that might not show up immediately after an accident but could get worse over time. These include broken bones, soft tissue damage, head trauma, neck injuries like whiplash, spinal injuries, and even post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD). By providing immediate, detailed evaluations, Apex OSN aims to catch and treat problems early, helping patients avoid complications down the road.

The clinic's treatment plans blend medical and therapeutic services according to each patient's needs. Options include medication, injections, chiropractic care, physical therapy, neurology services, and orthopedic surgery. They use advanced diagnostics like X-rays and MRIs to ensure accurate assessments and tailored treatment plans for every patient.

Dr. Erik Bendiks of Apex OSN, speaking about the enhanced services, said, "We understand the complexities involved in treating accident-related injuries. Our mission is to provide thorough diagnoses and individualized treatment plans that maximize recovery outcomes. It's important for us to make sure our patients receive the care they need promptly."

Besides treating physical injuries, the clinic addresses the psychological effects of accidents, offering help for conditions such as PTSD. This holistic approach highlights Apex OSN's dedication to comprehensive care, focusing on both physical and emotional recovery.
