July 30, 2025 -

House Call Chiros is expanding its mobile chiropractic services to include comprehensive offerings as a chiropractor for corporate events in Scottsdale. The aim is to bring health and wellness directly to businesses and professionals, making chiropractic care more accessible and convenient.

Started by experienced chiropractors Dr. Thomas Morgan and Dr. Kristy Morgan, House Call Chiros is recognized for its unique service model which brings chiropractic care to clients wherever they are, whether that's at home, the office, or even at a luxury resort. More information about their diverse service offerings, including services at luxury resorts, is available on their website. This service model allows clients to maintain their therapeutic routines without the hassle of travel or waiting rooms. The new focus on corporate events is aimed at boosting workplace wellness and employee satisfaction in Scottsdale.

Dr. Thomas Morgan shared his enthusiasm about this new direction. "Our goal is to break down the barriers that often prevent people from seeking necessary health services. By expanding our reach into corporate events, we aim to make chiropractic care more seamlessly integrated into everyday work life, supporting productivity and overall well-being in the workplace," he said. He explained that this tailored approach is not just for immediate physical relief but also to foster long-term health benefits for employees.

The focus on corporate event chiropractic services highlights the growing recognition of health awareness in professional settings. By helping to minimize work-related stress and health problems, this service aims to reduce absenteeism and boost productivity. The offerings include ergonomic assessments, posture consultations, and therapeutic sessions that can be customized for individuals or groups. This attention to wellness provides organizations with valuable resources to support their teams.

As a house call chiropractor, House Call Chiros has built its reputation on flexibility and innovative care. Their mobile services are crafted to fit the busy lives of their clients, ensuring personalized care that can be accessed anywhere. Besides workplace services, House Call Chiros meets its clients where they are, be it health retreats at resorts or private sessions at home. This adaptability is meant to cater to everyone, from busy entrepreneurs to parents managing hectic schedules.

Additionally, the company provides services in yoga and fitness studios, gyms, and health clubs, focusing on helping members stay fit and prevent injuries with professional guidance. Their comprehensive care also extends to health events at workplaces and specialized sessions for athletes, ensuring thorough attention across various sectors. The company's holistic approach blends traditional methods with modern therapies, aiming for complete healing and pain relief.

Expanding further, the company has introduced its house call chiropractor service in several locations around the Phoenix Valley. This includes Scottsdale, Tempe, Chandler, and Gilbert, making sure clients all over can access their top-notch services without worrying about location.

Even with this service expansion, House Call Chiros maintains a strong online presence. Their website details service options, operational areas, and offers a simple way for clients to schedule sessions. The site also connects users to useful health resources and social media pages, providing a clear picture of the company's mission and services. Clients can look forward to an easy-to-navigate platform that helps with booking appointments and inquiries.

Dr. Thomas Morgan further stated, "Our mission is to tailor the excellent care we are known for in the community directly into corporate spaces. We are committed to ensuring that our clients, whether individuals at home or employees at a corporate event, receive the highest quality of chiropractic solutions to enhance their well-being. Bringing health to the workplace complements our broader vision of a healthier community."

The introduction of specialized corporate event services marks an exciting growth phase for House Call Chiros, establishing it as a leader in mobile chiropractic care. By focusing on businesses and their teams, they're promoting a proactive approach to health in Scottsdale, offering organizations an easy way to prioritize their employees' well-being. This expansion reinforces House Call Chiros' dedication to high standards in chiropractic care and workplace wellness, all detailed on their website.
