February 02, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Los Angeles, CA business Essential Oil Labs has released new information on the various cleaning benefits of tea tree oil. While the oil is considered by many people for other applications, the company wants people to know it is also suitable as an all house natural cleaner, with particular benefits as mold remover. They have released various pieces of information on how to use the oil.

Quinton Jeffries from Essential Oil Labs says: "Tea tree oil is one of Mother Nature's finest wonders. Aside from its other uses, it has also been found to be an effective product for overall home cleaning. You can get rid of mold, nasty smells, streaky windows, greasy tiles and more. Tea tree really is essential to have in your home."

The company does warn that the real benefits of the oil can only be accessed if the oil is truly pure and natural. The Essential Oil Labs tea tree oil, needless to say, is 100% natural, pure and certified organic. It is also responsibly sourced so that there is no negative impact on the planet from either using or producing this oil. This is particularly important when using the oil as a cleaning product, as it will then go down the sewage and pipe system. Many household cleaning products have various toxic chemicals included in them, which then affect overall water supplies as well.

Those who have tried the oil have been overwhelmingly pleased with it. "We are a chemical free household and buy only natural cleaning products," says Wilson. "I followed the all purpose cleaner formula (in the pdf) with water, vinegar and lemon oil. Wow, I found a keeper. I use it to clean the entire kitchen (including appliances) and bathroom and as a spot remover. I just tried making my own reusable dryer sheets and I love the fact I can keep reusing them (so far only used 1 sheet and it lasted few weeks so far) and they keep my family's clothes smelling fresh."

The company encourages everyone to like the Essential Oil Labs Facebook page and get further information.
