Braden Counseling Center Unveils Deep TMS Therapy in Sycamore, IL

May 14, 2025

Sycamore, Illinois - May 14, 2025 -
Braden Counseling Center is about to broaden its mental health services with a new treatment called deep Transcranial Magnetic Stimulation (TMS). This option targets conditions like Major Depressive Disorder, anxiety, depression, late-life depression, obsessive-compulsive disorder, and smoking addiction. The treatment is cleared by the FDA and offers a choice without side effects or medication.

Deep TMS is an important step for those looking for alternatives. It uses magnetic fields to impact nerve cells in the brain, aiming to improve mental health without drugs.

Brenda Butz from Braden Counseling Center expressed excitement about this new service. "We are excited to offer deep TMS to our clients. This treatment aligns with our commitment to providing comprehensive mental health services to those in our community seeking effective therapies without the burden of medications or their side effects."

By adding this service, Braden Counseling Center shows its dedication to meeting various mental health needs. Their introduction of deep TMS offers hope to those looking for new ways to improve mental health.

To stay updated on their services, including the upcoming deep TMS treatment, additional information will be shared through various channels. Interested parties can View our company's website here to learn more about what they offer.

Deep TMS will be part of the center's lineup of therapies, which includes individual, couples, and family counseling. More about individual counseling services, where the goal is to provide necessary tools and skills to help individuals navigate life's difficulties, can be explored on their website. They also offer help for issues like substance abuse and domestic violence. The center provides evaluations for driving under the influence (DUI) cases and driver's license reinstatement, taking a complete approach to mental health.

Braden Counseling Center's goal is to tailor treatments to each person, aiming to enhance client wellness. This new treatment addition reflects their commitment as a key mental health provider in the community.

"Deep TMS is not just about offering another treatment option," added Brenda Butz. "It's about giving our clients more choices and more control over their mental health. We are thrilled to provide a non-invasive and effective treatment alternative that could significantly impact lives."

Braden Counseling Center has several locations, including Sycamore, Rochelle, Elgin, and North Aurora, making their services accessible to many. With deep TMS on the horizon, individuals have another option alongside the center's other therapies.

Updates and community engagement are also available on social media, where those interested can View our company's Facebook page.

As Braden Counseling Center moves forward with this new treatment, they take a step toward enriching mental health care with advanced, non-drug therapies. The introduction of deep TMS is expected to bring fresh solutions, reinforcing the center's commitment to serving their community with effective and comprehensive care.
