May 15, 2025 -
Central Coast, NSW - ClockOn, a leading provider of workforce management software for Australian businesses, has reaffirmed its commitment to the pharmacy sector with a strong presence at the recent Pharmacy Guild event held in Newcastle. The company, represented by Business Development Manager Matt Squires, sponsored and attended the event, engaging with both long-time customers and new pharmacy owners.

Held earlier this month, the Pharmacy Guild event served as a significant touchpoint for ClockOn, enabling the company to showcase its newest platform developments - ClockOn Online and ClockOn Pro. These products were met with strong interest, particularly among existing users who were eager to learn more about upgraded features and enhanced online capabilities.

?Our presence at the Pharmacy Guild event wasn?t just about visibility - it was about deepening relationships and demonstrating that we are continuously evolving to meet the real-world needs of pharmacy operations,? said Matt Squires. ?It was encouraging to see not only the appreciation from current clients but also the interest from new pharmacy owners who are exploring workforce solutions for the first time.?

The event facilitated meaningful conversations and product demonstrations. ClockOn?s team focused on listening to the challenges faced by pharmacy businesses and aligning their offerings accordingly. The approachable format of the event allowed for both structured and informal interactions, culminating in a positive reception from attendees.

Notably, the engagement led to a solid pipeline of potential new business opportunities. Feedback from sales discussions indicated a growing demand for digital solutions that streamline scheduling, payroll, and compliance - areas where ClockOn continues to innovate.

ClockOn?s attendance also had a broader community impact. The event reinforced the company's standing as a trusted partner in pharmacy workforce management. Casual networking after the formal agenda, including informal discussions over drinks, further solidified ClockOn?s role as an accessible and supportive industry player.

?Our team?s participation at the Newcastle event underscores our ongoing investment in the pharmacy industry,? added Squires. ?It demonstrated our commitment to staying connected, building trust, and fostering long-term partnerships with those who rely on us.?

The event was a pivotal platform for introducing the enhanced capabilities of ClockOn Online and previewing the upcoming ClockOn Pro subscription tier, which includes advanced HR functionalities designed to meet the growing administrative demands of pharmacy businesses.

ClockOn Online offers cloud-based access to essential workforce management tools, enabling pharmacy owners and managers to oversee rosters, track attendance, manage leave, and process payroll from any location. This flexibility is particularly valuable for pharmacies that operate across multiple locations or require real-time visibility into staffing. The system?s intuitive interface and automated compliance tracking are engineered to help pharmacies stay ahead of complex award and Fair Work requirements - minimizing risk and reducing manual oversight.

Set to launch soon, ClockOn Pro will build on these capabilities with a suite of integrated HR tools tailored to small- and medium-sized healthcare environments. Features such as digital employee records, streamlined onboarding workflows, and performance documentation are expected to reduce paperwork and improve retention by supporting more structured HR practices. For pharmacy operators, who often manage tight schedules and regulatory obligations, these enhancements promise to significantly lighten the administrative load.

With more than two decades of experience serving Australian businesses, ClockOn?s integrated workforce management solutions have long been favored by pharmacies for their compliance features and user-friendly design. These new product developments, which were central to discussions at the event, offer cloud-based tools designed to simplify employee rostering, manage leave and attendance, and ensure accurate payroll?capabilities critical in the fast-paced pharmacy environment.
