

PPC Masterminds To Host Los Angeles Google Analytics and Business Insights Training Meet Up Event

January 29, 2016

January 29, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Los Angeles based pay per click expert management firm PPC Masterminds is set to host a free training meet up for Google analytics and business insights. The company will choose one person at the event to mentor for free.

Based in Los Angeles, PPC Masterminds is a pay per click management firm that teaches business owners how to grow their business online and helps them bring traffic to their sites. The firm has now announced a new event coming up in February which is stated to be a training meet up for Google analytics and business insights. A spokesperson for the company also stated the event is free to attend. The event has been hyped about on social media and set to be hosted in Los Angeles. The event is being organized through Meetup.com.

Los Angeles Google Analytics & Business Insights training is open to all business owners looking to increase their sales/leads/profit by understanding their website, their users and how those users interact with the site and their products. We offer FREE training courses for all members on a bi-weekly basis and we want everyone to join us to learn and mingle with one another, states the event's Meetup.com page at <http://ppcmasterminds.com/los-angeles/pay-per-click-management>.

The spokesperson for PPC Masterminds made an official press statement in which he gave an in-depth look into what the event has to offer. While previously having organized 5 very productive meet ups via Meetup.com, we are now set to host our biggest meet up to date in February. The event is free for all business owners, entrepreneurs and any interested people to attend.

He further stated, We will teach the attending people how to use their website analytics and reporting tools to gain an understating of their consumer base in order to grow their business. At the event, we will also be choosing one person who we will mentor for free.
