Palmetto Kids General Dentistry and Orthodontics, located at 101 Patriot Lane, just three miles east of I-26, is excited to share new developments that will make visits more enjoyable and improve the level of care for kids at its Summerville, South Carolina location. This practice is dedicated to making dental visits fun and free of stress for children while offering a full range of orthodontic services. Led by Dr. Kimberly Duffey, the practice provides routine cleanings, laser treatments, and restorative dental care. More information about their services can be found on the Palmetto Kids Dentistry and Orthodontics website.

Known as a leading orthodontist in Summerville, South Carolina, Palmetto Kids General Dentistry is making headway in promoting early orthodontic check-ups. Dr. Duffey and her team follow advice from the American Academy of Orthodontics, which says every child should see an orthodontist by age seven. This early approach helps catch potential issues early, guiding the healthy growth of a child's smile.

Amanda Hines, who has been visiting the clinic for a number of years, gave it a five-star review, praising the orthodontic care her son receives. Since they moved from Lexington in 2018, Amanda has noted how much her son enjoys the visits and talks about the team's strong cooperation. "The team makes the orthodontic process not only smooth but enjoyable for my son," said Amanda. Her review contributes to the clinic's strong 4.9-star rating based on 123 reviews, showcasing the consistent service they provide.

The clinic offers several orthodontic options, ranging from traditional braces to the latest techniques, all tailored to what each child needs. Dr. Duffey, who is in charge of orthodontic care, is dedicated to offering the most effective and least invasive treatments, utilizing advanced laser techniques when suitable.

Children are encouraged to actively participate in their dental health. The practice invests significantly in creating an environment that feels welcoming and fun. Dr. Kimberly Duffey commented, "We believe that introducing children to dental care in a positive and engaging manner sets the foundation for lifelong oral health. We strive to create a welcoming atmosphere that reduces anxiety, allowing children to build trust with our team."

The practice has added new services like providing sports guards, which help protect the teeth during athletic activities. They also offer free screenings for new patients under the age of two, reinforcing their focus on preventative care and early action.

Besides its wide range of services, the practice has convenient operating hours which fit various schedules and accepts major insurance plans such as Delta Dental, Blue Cross Blue Shield, and Cigna. With a strong online presence, complete with contact forms and active social media engagement on platforms like Facebook and Instagram, parents find it easy to stay in touch and get the information they need, as detailed on their website.

Palmetto Kids General Dentistry's dedication to a warm and inviting atmosphere is evident in its clean, child-friendly setting. Many reviews highlight the kindness and professionalism of the staff, attracting parents who appreciate compassionate support for their kids' dental health.

Dr. Duffey also noted, "Our mission is to provide a space where children can feel safe and excited about their dental visits. Each child deserves personal attention and care that makes them feel special and encourages a habit of regular dental check-ups throughout their lives."

Located at 101 Patriot Lane, just three miles east of I-26, the practice is conveniently positioned for families nearby. For more details on orthodontic options or to schedule a consultation, information is readily available on their website or by calling (843) 284-6497.
