Auxilion Named Company of the Year at Tech Excellence Awards 2025

May 28, 2025

Dublin, IE - May 28, 2025 -
DUBLIN, IRELAND ? May 28, 2025 ? Auxilion, a leading provider of IT managed services and digital consultancy, has been awarded Company of the Year at this year's Tech Excellence Awards 2025, at the Royal Marine Hotel in Dún Laoghaire. The annual event recognises outstanding performance, innovation, and leadership within Ireland?s technology sector. Auxilion?s recognition reflects its sustained growth, forward-thinking strategy, and commitment to excellence in service delivery across both Irish and UK markets.

The Tech Excellence Awards, considered the benchmark for achievement in the industry, are judged by a panel of seasoned experts who assess organisations on performance, innovation, and impact. Auxilion?s selection was based on its significant achievements over the past year, including its ambitious growth strategy, expanded service offerings, and commitment to customer success.

?This is in recognition and celebration of the entire Auxilion team,? said Patrick Jordan, CEO of Auxilion. ?To be named as Company of the Year is a testament not only to our progress and achievements to date but to the ambition and plans we have for the future.?

The award follows Auxilion?s announcement earlier this year of a comprehensive three-year growth strategy, backed by a ?10 million investment. This strategy is aimed at expanding the company?s modern managed IT services and consultancy portfolio, accelerating its recruitment efforts, and strengthening its presence across the UK market. As a result, Auxilion is scaling its operations to meet growing demand while investing in emerging technologies and long-term partnerships.

Over the past 12 months, Auxilion has executed high-impact projects for a wide range of public and private sector clients, helping organisations navigate the complexities of digital transformation. They have focused on delivering IT solutions that drive efficiency, improve security, and enable long-term scalability. Continued investment in cloud services, governance frameworks, IT resourcing, and agile delivery models has further solidified Auxilion?s reputation as a trusted technology partner.

This year?s win builds on previous success, with Auxilion having received the Managed Services Company of the Year award at the 2024 Tech Excellence Awards. The elevation to Company of the Year in 2025 highlights not only year-on-year growth but also the company?s ability to innovate and lead in a highly competitive industry.

In addition to service and strategy, judges praised Auxilion?s people-first culture and emphasis on professional development. With a growing team of highly skilled experts, the company has established internal frameworks to foster learning, collaboration, and career progression. These efforts have contributed to strong employee engagement and retention, both of which are instrumental to sustaining operational excellence.

The awards ceremony brought together key stakeholders from across the Irish technology ecosystem, providing a platform for industry leaders to celebrate achievements and share ideas for the future. Auxilion?s team was in attendance to receive the award and to engage with peers who are similarly driving innovation and change.

Auxilion?s success reflects a wider shift in how businesses view IT services, not as background support, but as strategic enablers of growth. By aligning its offerings with the real needs of clients and anticipating industry trends, Auxilion has positioned itself as an integral player in Ireland?s digital future.

Looking ahead, the company remains focused on deepening its client relationships, expanding service capabilities, and maintaining the highest standards of delivery. The Company of the Year title not only marks a milestone for Auxilion but also reinforces its role as a leader and innovator in the technology sector.
