

Sheets Heating, Cooling & Plumbing Confirms Service Area Expansion

October 09, 2025

Fort Wayne, Indiana - October 09, 2025 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Sheets Heating, Cooling & Plumbing has officially confirmed the expansion of its HVAC service coverage to include the Pine Valley area. The update brings Pine Valley into the company's recognized Fort Wayne service region and reflects a continuation of the company's established operating footprint in northeast Indiana.

The company, which has served Fort Wayne and surrounding communities for several decades, provides a range of residential heating, cooling, and plumbing services. Pine Valley now joins a list of neighborhoods formally acknowledged by the company as within regular service reach.

"Pine Valley has long been considered a neighboring area to our central operations," said Janie Vachon of Sheets Heating, Cooling & Plumbing. "We've regularly received service calls from this community, and this formal recognition simply reflects what has been a consistent part of our operations."

Sheets Heating, Cooling & Plumbing maintains a service model built around residential systems and has operated with a stable presence throughout Allen County. The addition of Pine Valley to the company's designated service map does not represent a new type of offering, but rather provides clarification to current and prospective clients regarding geographic availability.

The Pine Valley neighborhood lies in close proximity to the company's primary service hub and is considered part of the greater Fort Wayne metropolitan area. By identifying the area more clearly within its listed service zones, the company intends to reduce uncertainty for homeowners who may be unfamiliar with the scope of its territory.

No changes to staffing, pricing, or availability have been made in connection with this update. Instead, the expansion is being treated as a formal acknowledgment of longstanding operations in the area. As a result, residents of Pine Valley can expect continued access to the same level of HVAC service currently offered throughout the wider Fort Wayne region.

The update is one of several recent adjustments to how the company communicates its service structure. Earlier this year, Sheets Heating, Cooling & Plumbing began standardizing the way neighborhoods and communities are presented on its digital platforms, with the goal of improving transparency for customers researching HVAC service availability online.

Vachon notes that this is not the start of a new initiative, but an evolution of existing infrastructure. "We've always focused on clear communication, and this step is part of refining how we share information about where we work. There's no disruption to our process or team, just a more defined approach to listing service areas."

Sheets Heating, Cooling & Plumbing continues to operate independently and remains headquartered in Fort Wayne. The company handles a full range of heating and air conditioning service requests, along with plumbing needs for residential properties. Technicians are trained across multiple equipment types and work throughout the region on both scheduled and as-needed service calls.

While the Pine Valley area is now listed directly among service areas on the company's website, it remains under the umbrella of its broader Fort Wayne coverage. The distinction is meant to assist in online searches and improve clarity for users navigating the company's service descriptions.

No additional announcements were made in connection with this update, and no changes to service hours or response policies are planned at this time.
