"Many people find that using the internet on their mobile phone is a frustrating experience because the loading of websites can be slow and clunky," says Anthony Yap from eBusiness Masters. AMP is a full open source initiative that aims to make it possible for publishers to create pages that are fully mobile optimized, so that these pages can load on any device."

eBusiness Masters is known for their work on localized SEO. They focus on being able to offer all the most up to date and cutting edge technology to the advantage of their clients. Offering Redmond businesses the opportunity to take advantage of AMP project is something that has set them apart from other SEO

Those who have used the new service have been very positive about the results. "The world of SEO is now so complex that I was about ready to throw in the towel," says a local business owner. "I simply didn't have the time to do it myself. Luckily, eBusiness Masters showed me how important it is to be online and to be mobile ready as well, and they did it all for me. The difference this has made for my business has been huge. The reality is that people do not just shop online. If they want to find information about physical companies they want to go to online as well. Thanks to eBusiness Masters, when they look for me, they can do so easily even on their mobile phones. I recommend these guys to anyone."
